OLD GLORY OFF TO ROME

Leaves Old Orchard at 1:23 With 3 Men Aboard

Old Orchard, Me., Sept. 6—Old Glory, the giant Fokker monoplane whose flight is sponsored by William Randolph Hearst, hopped off today at 1:23 p. m. for Rome. Three men are aboard—Lloyd Bertaud and James Dewitt Hill, the two pilots, and Philip A. Payne, managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror, personal director for Mr. Hearst, in charge of the flight.

By winning a toss of a coin in the sand at the last moment, Hill won the honor of taking the plane into the air, while Bertaud will be at the controls on the last half of the 4,100-mile jump.

Spinning along the beach at an 80-mile-an-hour clip, the plane rose gracefully after a run of a little more than a mile, and the golden wings and silvery body cut a beautiful arc past the end of Old Orchard pier as Hill turned its nose eastward for Bordeaux, the southern Alps and the Eternal City.

The start was made in the face of a brisk southwest breeze which provided the necessary lifting power for the gigantic load which is in the neighborhood of 12,600 pounds, including plane and all.

Weather conditions all the way over the sea were reported excellent by government meterological experts.

Mechanical experts placed their unqualified approval on the plane and its big Bristol-Jupiter motor, while radio tests fully satisfied every demand of those who inspected this equipment.

Mr. Hearst telegraphed each of the fliers that, if he had any doubt of the success of the flight or any fear of danger, he was willing to withdraw the plane and pay him the full sum of their contracts. Both Bertaud and Hill expressed their full willingness to wing across the North Atlantic wastes in "Old Glory."

Payne's wife, Mrs. Dorothy Payne, and Bertaud's wife and mother were beside the plane to say good-bye just before the

What About Native Borns?
Brewery Stock—
Gambling Shares
Fraud Attracts Attention
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1927, by Star Co.

CHICAGO IS ARRANGING to deport "alien gangsters and bootleggers" that break the law, individuals not naturalized, whose wickedness shocks Chicago. That's a good idea, but something ought to be done about the native born American citizens without whose co-operation the "alien thugs" could not make their profits.

Wherever you find an "alien thug" making money through crime and through bootlegging you will also find a few "good Americans" sharing his profits and helping in his work.

C. V. Miller of Toronto left brewery stock to seven Methodist ministers and Ontario Jockey Club shares to opponents of race track gambling.

At the end of nine years, the proceeds of his estate go to the parents of the largest family born in the Province during that time.

Methodist ministers, to get the $75,000 brewery stock, must draw dividends and vote on the company's management "to see whether their avarice for money was greater than their principles."

The ministers, of course, will do what is necessary to collect the money, and use it for prohibition propaganda, thus thwarting Satan.

Leaving your money to the biggest family is dull. The mouse would beat any human being, the shad would beat a mouse, and the female oyster, with her millions of youngsters each year, would make the shad look like birth control. Leaving money to poor parents that take the best care of their children might be a good idea. But money left for benevolent purposes—excepting science and education—is usually wasted. The work you do while you live counts, there's no knowing what your money may do after you.

An Irish girl, living in a queer old castle on the coast of Ireland, wanted to write. But nobody would print what she wrote, the publishers sent everything back.

Then she wrote "The Diary of an 18th Century Lady of Fashion" and made a success of it, although she wasn't an 18-year-old lady, and didn't know much about fashions. The book was published eagerly. It was taken by genuine solemn reviewers and now that the rather innocent fraud is revealed, the young woman probably will have

THREE CONVICTS FLEE DEER ISLAND IN BOAT

Police of three cities, as well as captains on coastwise watercraft, are on the lookout today for three men who made a successful escape from Deer Island and have not been seen since.

The men, James Gately of Roxbury, Joseph J. Andrello of Somerville and Edward Burke of Cambridge made their escape by swimming from the Southern Point of Deer Island to a dredger a hundred yards from shore, from which they seized a dory and rowed away to freedom.

The escape was the result of one of the most carefully laid plots that has come to the attention of the officials of the House of Correction in several years. The men were off the island and away on the dory before guards had become aware of the absence.

MA CORSON NEARS GOAL

Dover, Eng., Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Mrs. Clemington Corson (Amelia Gade) of New York, second woman and first mother to swim the English Channel, today began an attempt to duplicate her feat of a year ago, but in the opposite direction.

She entered the water at South Foreland, east of this city, at 9:30 a. m., and struck out for France.

Mrs. Corson swam the first mile in thirty minutes. At 10:30 o'clock she was reported to be about five miles off St. Margaret's Bay.

An incoming boat reported that at 1:40 this afternoon Mrs. Corson was going strong, having covered about 7½ miles. She was then being carried down the Channel on the ebb.

This boat reported that a heavy rain squall made things unpleasant. Later in the afternoon the weather

DRY LEADERS PUZZLED TO FILL WHEELER'S JOB

Washington, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Shocked by the sudden death of Wayne B. Wheeler, dry leaders in the National capital today admitted that it would be difficult to find a successor to his post of general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League as effective in directing the organization's efforts to maintain strong national prohibition legislation.

No announcement as to a successor is anticipated before the league executive committee holds a meeting in the near future for the purpose of filling the vacancy.

Among the men mentioned in discussion for the post were: Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Virginia, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and chairman of the league's campaign committee; Dr. Ernest C. H. Cherrington of Westerville, Ohio, secretary of the league's executive committee, and the Rev. S. C. Dinwiddie, former Ohio publicist leader of the league for many years, national legislative director of the league.

MAN AND BOY KILLED IN 2 TRAIN ACCIDENTS

A man and a boy were killed by trains in Greater Boston today.

The first victim was James Flaherty, fifty, of 131 West Broadway, South Boston, who was struck by the Hingham-Boston express on the New Haven road near the Mt. Vernon street bridge, Dorchester, shortly before 9 o'clock. The body was mangled and hurled to the outbound track. He had been employed on the railroad as a laborer.

The second victim was Carmino Prota, four, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Prota, of No. 53 Malden street, Malden. Lonesome for his mother, who was operated on at Malden Hospital yesterday, the boy started to visit his father, employed in a nearby factory.

As the youngster toddled along the Boston & Maine tracks near Edgeworth station, the express from Haverhill to Boston struck him. The mangled body was picked up by Thomas Flecker several yards away. One of Flecker's children was killed by an automobile a week ago.

The train did not stop until almost to the Wellington station. The Prota boy's father was called from the factory and was prostrated as he identified the body as that of his son. Two brothers also survive.

Because of the mother's condition she was not informed of the boy's death.

POSTAL RECEIPTS IN 50 CITIES JUMP $1,763,563

Washington, Sept. 6 (U.N.S.)—An indication of the general prosperity of the country was given in postal receipts at 50 selected cities, which totalled $28,477,761.71 in August compared with $26,714,198.31 in August a year ago, an increase of 6.60 per cent., the Postoffice Department announced today.

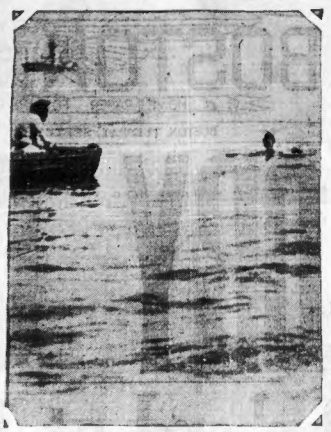
First Mother in Channel Swim ~ Seeks Unique Honor ~ Of Crossing It Both Ways

THEY WANT MAMMA TO WIN GOLD CUP
Mrs. Corson's children are cheering for her today as she battles in English Channel for the Dover gold cup and honor of being the first person to have crossed the famous waterway both ways.



NEARING THE FINISH
Mrs. Corson as she neared the finish line last year, three weeks after Gertrude Ederle, first woman to accomplish the feat, broke all records.

"Old Glory" to Pay Solemn Tribute to "White Bird"

New York, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Somewhere off Newfoundland, the Old Glory is to pay tribute to the White Bird, the ships in which Nungesser and Coli, missing French fliers, unsuccessfully attempted to make the first transatlantic flight this year from Paris to New York.

James DeWitt Hill and Lloyd Bertaud, co-pilots in the American plane, carried in memory of the French plane a wreath which they planned to drop into the ocean shortly after leaving Newfoundland behind.

On the wreath was the inscription: "To Nungesser and Coli. You showed the way, we followed. Bertaud and Hill."

OLD GLORY FLIGHT 500 MILES MORE THAN LINDY'S

New York, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—A successful flight to Rome in Old Glory would bring to Pilots J. D. Hill and Lloyd Bertaud the record for long-distance non-stop Atlantic flying. Because they would outdistance the four previous Atlantic air crossings this Summer by from about 200 to more than 1,700 miles.

The distance to be covered by Hill and Bertaud, following a modified great circle course, is approximately 4,100 miles.

The distance covered by Schlee and Brock, around-the-world fliers, in their hop from Harbor Grace, N. F., to London, England, was 2,370 miles.

The distance and time in the Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Byrd flights, as compiled by the National Geographic Society, were:

Lindbergh, 3,610 miles, 33 hours, 30 minutes.

Chamberlin, 3905 miles, 40 hours, 30 minutes.

Byrd, 3,477 miles, 41 hours, 27 minutes. (Byrd's own estimate was 4,500 miles.)

start was made. As Hill, followed closely by Bertaud, climbed into the cabin, Payne turned to embrace his wife once more.

The toss of the coin which sent Hill to the "stick," while Bertaud sat beside him, was agreed upon as the method of determining which should have the honor of the takeoff. Hill appeared elated when he won.

He sat at the controls and warmed up the motor for ten minutes more before he waved to those outside that he was ready to be off.

The women folk waved and threw kisses, the blocks were knocked from under the wheels, and, "pulling her the gun," Hill drove the huge bird from the Pine Point starting place straight down the beach toward Old Orchard proper and the distant pier.

Several score police held a crowd of several hundred persons safely out of danger.

After running smoothly for over a mile, Old Glory rose slightly, bounced on the hard sand, rose again, bounced a second time, and then slid upward to an elevation of thirty or forty feet.

Turning out over the waves, once he had the plane in the air, Hill poked its nose around to the east and was off.

A speck that disappeared rapidly over the horizon was the last evidence of the departing monster that watchers on the shore saw.

4,100-MILE HOP

With conditions continuing favorable, the jump to Rome should take about forty-one hours, in the opinion of fairmen. Old Glory is taking the great circle route which, from Old Orchard to Rome, is about 4,100 miles.

The plane carries 1,170 gallons of gasoline and 70 gallons of oil, and the fuel supply is believed to give a wide margin of safety.

The two pilots had no set plan of relief, leaving this entirely to circumstances. The man who is not doing the actual piloting will handle the navigation and the radio.

"Old Glory" may be brought back through the air to Florida and then up the coast to New York, if the flight to Rome is successful, Bertaud said shortly before the start.

Before the departure, the barograph, which will officially record the distance covered, was sealed with Major Carl Smith of the Maine National Guard as witness. Smith is a law partner of Governor Brewster of Maine, and was the latter's representative in this formality.

HANDSHAKES

One of the last acts of the fliers and their passenger was to shake hands all around with the mechanics and other experts who surveyed Old Glory and pronounced her safe for the long voyage.

Among the articles carried in the flight are letters from three American Cardinals, O'Connell, Mundelein and Hayes, to the Pope, as well as other letters to the King of Italy and Premier Mussolini. The plane carries ten pounds of mail in all.

Mayor Nichols of Boston, Governor Brewster of Maine and Secretary of State Kellogg have letters aboard directed to Premier Mussolini, while the message of greeting to the King of Italy is from President Calvin Coolidge. Another message, from the Greater Boston Federation of Churches, is carried aboard the ship.

Last preparations for the flight today were swift. Payne was no the beach at an early hour, receiving weather reports and keeping in close touch with Captain Eric Dasham of the Bristol-Jupiter factory, who with a corps of assistants was going over the motor bit by bit.

There was not a cloud in the sky and no haze over the water.

The last gunline was placed aboard and the plane was swung into starting position as Payne said:

"We are going to hop!"

Immediately he left for the hotel to get Lloyd Bertaud, the pilot. James De Witt Hill, navigator, was already on hand. Bertaud had been resting.

At this juncture, Father James H. Mullin, pastor of St. Margaret's Church, Old Orchard, arrived and, mounting an oil barrel, put on his stole and solemnly blessed Old Glory.

He had previously heard the confession of Bertaud and administered communion. Like the pilot, Payne had received the sacraments.

Mrs. Payne, wife of the director of the flight; Mrs. Florence Callahan, Bertaud's mother; and Mrs. Lloyd Bertaud, came on to the beach just as the food supply arrived.

They watched the food being placed aboard and then sat down a few yards from the starting point to pencil notes of loving farewell.

FAIR WEATHER

Bringing weather maps covering the entire area between this shore and the Mediterranean, James H. Scarr, government meteorologist expert of world-wide renown, made an official report of extreme importance to Bertaud and Hill.

In substance the report was:

Fair weather all the way across the Atlantic.

Low pressure area about 2,000 miles off Newfoundland.

Light rains over France, which will probably be gone by the time Old Glory reaches there.

Everything propitious for a trip unhandicapped by adverse weather conditions.

Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine also officially approved the flight. He sent as his representative Robert Hazzard, a scientific expert, who went over the plane and reported it "absolutely fit."

Governor Brewster also wired Payne, asking him to express the congratulations and well-wishes of every citizen of the Pine Tree State to the aviators, together with Maine's approval of the flight.

RADIO TESTS

Bertaud and Hill were eager to hop off today and they expressed keen satisfaction when informed, early, that a brisk southwest wind was blowing up the beach.

The tide was receding, leaving a wide swath of sand for a take-off, as the last preparations were underway.

Radio tests were made by experts. The most recent addition to the safety devices on the plane is a set which will automatically send S. O. S. signals on a 600-meter wave length in case of distress.

The starting point selected by experts was two and a half miles north of Jones' hangar, which was the landing place of the plane on its arrival here Saturday night from Roosevelt Field, Long Island.

OLD GLORY FLASHES

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (A. P.)—The wireless letters of the monoplane Old Glory are WRHC. The wireless operates on 610 meters and has a range for both sending and receiving of between 400 and 500 miles, according to atmospheric conditions.

All dispatches from the plane, whether received on shore or relayed from ships at sea, will be at once made public to all newspapers through agents of William Randolph Hearst, financial backer of the flight.

THE two pilots of the Old Glory will rely on their flying clothes to identify them when they reach Rome. Lloyd Bertaud's flying costume is a light-brown gabardine suit and J. D. Hill's a white mechanic's suit, both outfits being made of rubberized material.

BERTAUD carried a small piece of canvas from the North Pole dirigible Norge as a good luck token for his flight to Rome. The souvenir was given him by some Italian officer, friend of Colonel Nobile, who flew the Norge across the North Pole last year.

* * *

OLD GLORY is a sister ship, identical in every detail, to the ill-fated St. Raphael, which disappeared while attempting the westward passage with Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim and her two pilot escorts. The same model of Bristol Jupiter 450-horsepower engine was installed in each.

Old Glory Food Supply Is Carefully Chosen

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Scientifically balanced meals were assured the men in Old Glory on their non-stop flight to Rome.

Their food supplies, carefully prepared to guarantee each man 2,500 calories of food per day on their two-day journey, were:

1 quart cream of pea soup.
1 quart of orange juice.
¼ package Swedish rye bread.
8 Chilsly sandwiches.
9 beef loaf sandwiches.
8 chicken sandwiches.
½ pound liverwurst.
8 hard-boiled, stuffed eggs.
12 stuffed dates.
3 quarts of coffee.
6 oranges.
4 lemons.
5 packages of chewing gum.
9 peanut butter sandwiches.
2 pounds of cocoa malt.

The aviators carried also a supply of army rations for use in emergencies.

'GLORY' PLANE CLOSELY AKIN TO 'AMERICA'

New York, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—The monoplane Old Glory is best described as closely similar to Commander Byrd's America, except that instead of having three 220-horsepower Wright whirlwind motors it has but one engine, a 450-horse power Bristol Jupiter.

Old Glory has a wing span of 65 feet compared with the America's 71, but it is one foot and a half longer than the America which measured 48 feet. Old Glory has a gasoline tank capacity of 1,120 gallons as against 1,300 in the America, and room for 97 gallons of oil compared with the 88 gallons carried by Byrd.

Old Glory has a loaded weight of 12,250 pounds, 1,750 lighter than the America.

The Beriaud-Hill plane carried both receiving and sending wireless apparatus as well as an automatic signal device, similar to the radio equipment on the America.

Both planes were designed and built by Anthony H. G. Fokker and are of wood and cloth construction.

The instrument boards of both planes hold virtually the same navigation instruments, including magnetic compass, earth indiction compass, drift indivator and altimeter.

The cabin space on old glory is less than on the America as the latter was built for four men and the former for two, though there was room for a third in case it should be decided to carry a passenger.

Eagles, Flags Help to Identify Old Glory

New York, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Old Glory, the Fokker monoplane, which is the latest aspirant for transatlantic honors, may be identified in the air from the following description:

It is a huge monoplane with a single motor, golden wings stretching out from a silver body.

Under the wings on either side are painted huge American flags and the Department of Commerce designation NX-703. This designation also appears on the sides of the fuselage at the rear.

Most of the space on the sides of the fuselage is occupied by the name Old Glory in red, white and blue. There is room, however, for pictures of two eagles bearing olive branches in their beaks, under one the word Rome and under the other New York.

31 LINERS NEAR ROUTE OF OLD GLORY AT SEA

New York, Sept. 6 (A.P.).—In her flight to Rome, Old Glory may pass within sight or signalling distance of thirty-one liners now on the high seas.

Ships outbound from this port are: Berengaria for Southampton, sailed August 31; Homa for Genoa, same date; American Shipper for London, Deutschland for Hamburg, Hellig Olav for Oslo, Norway; Stockholm for Gothenburg, all Sept. 1; Adriatic for Antwerp, California for Glasgow, Laconia for Liverpool, Minnesota for London, Majestic for Southampton, New Amsterdam for Rotterdam and the Paris for Havre, all September 3.

Ships bound for this port and their due dates are: Homeric, from Southampton, due tomorrow; Esthonia, from Danzig, due Thursday; Aquitania and George Washington, both from Southampton; Reliance, from Hamburg, and Ryndam, from Rotterdam, all due September 9; Berlin, from Bremen, due September 10; Lapland, from Antwerp, and Carmania, from Havre, both due September 11, American Merchant from London, Baltic from Liverpool, Dullio from Genoa, Minnekahda from London, Rochambeau from Havre, Samaria from Liverpool, Transylvania from Glasgow and the Westphalia from Hamburg, all due September 12.

MRS. RUTH RICE HUB AUTHOR, A SUICIDE

Brooding over separation from her husband and daughters and crazed by pain from a carbuncle, Mrs. Ruth Mason Rice, author, lecturer and poet, and a former Boston girl committed suicide by turning on the gas in her New York apartment.

Notes addressed to her father, a former president of the exclusive Browning Society of Boston, to her husband, Willis B. Rice, of 146 Highland avenue, Orange, N. J., to her sister, Mrs. Henry Taylor of New York and to the police explaining her act, were found in the rooms. The body was found by the building superintendent who found gas pouring from the kitchen jets.

Mr. Rice explained that he and his wife had separated because of temperamental disagreements and that their two daughters had been placed in Miss Thayer's school in Orange last Spring.

Mrs. Rice was president and founder of the Book and Crafts Club, past president of the League of American Pen Women and a member of several other literary organizations. Her father was a former professor of English Bible at the Rochester Theological Seminary. Her mother is Caroline Atwater Mason of Boston, five legislation would be sought.

CHARACTER NOT MADE BY LAW, SAYS GERRY

Providence, Sept. 6.—People never will be made good by laws, and any theory that they can be is a theory of mistaken idea, the Veterans of Foreign Wars were told in convention of the Rt. Rev. Edward Arthur Burroughs, Bishop of Ripon, for a ten-year "scientific holiday."

The bishop said the world would get on very happily if every laboratory were closed for a decade to allow the world to assimilate the evolutionary knowledge with which it was glutted. The energy thus saved, he added, could be used in recovering "the lost art of getting on together."

TARBET OF RED SOX TO WED SATURDAY

Jeremiah J. Leary, assistant city registrar, who presides over the marriage license bureau, is a conscientious man—also an ardent follower of the Red Sox.

The assistant registrar was one of the 2,500 or more baseball fans who were carried willy-nilly into Fenway Park yesterday afternoon, when a park gate way before a crush of fans.

Mr. Leary didn't pay to see the double-header, along with the 2,499 others who "crashed the gate," and his reluctance about it, but today he eased it a bit. Wilbur Arlington Tarbet, right fielder for the Red Sox applied for a license to wed Miss Margaret Helen Sinclair, twenty-three, a school teacher of Cleveland.

The registrar refused to take the $1.05 marriage license fee from the tall player, but paid the fee from his own pocket. The young ball player gave his age as twenty-two, his occupation as student, and said he was graduated from the Ohio State University.

Young Tarbet also announced that he and his sweetheart wished to be married next Saturday, as it is both their birthdays. He did not apply for a waiver of the five-day law, which will be necessary if the couple are to wed on the day set.

The bride is speeding eastward to join the young man of her choice.

10-Year "Scientific Vacation" Scheme Amazes British

London, Sept. 6 (A.P.).—Feelings ranging from amazement to amusement were aroused in British scientific circles by the suggestion of the Rt. Rev. Edward Arthur Burroughs, Bishop of Ripon, for a ten-year "scientific holiday."

The bishop said the world would get on very happily if every laboratory were closed for a decade to allow the world to assimilate the evolutionary knowledge with which it was glutted. The energy thus saved, he added, could be used in recovering "the lost art of getting on together."

WHEELER, HEAD OF DRY ARMY, IS DEAD

has been prohibition's most famous and successful spokesman, is dead at the zenith of a brilliant career.

Thirty-three years of energetic labor in the cause of temperance were ended at a sanitarium here late yesterday. The general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League had asked a nurse to hand him a book. He half lifted himself in bed to take it. Then a heart stricken by disease and overtaxed by tragedy which took the life of Mrs. Wheeler three weeks ago, stopped.

At his bedside were a son, Robert Wayne Wheeler, and Dr. Howard Hyde Russell, founder of the league which Wayne B. Wheeler so successfully served.

Heart trouble, following prolonged treatment for kidney trouble was the cause of death. Mr. Wheeler had come to the sanitarium last week from his Summer home at Little Point Sable, Mich., the home where on August 13 his wife was burned to death when her clothing caught fire from an oil stove and where her father, a witness of that tragedy, had dropped dead.

Specialists at the sanitarium had announced only a few hours before Mr. Wheeler's death that his condition had improved so much that a major operation for which plans had been made would not be necessary.

The double tragedy at the Little Point Sable cottage was said by his friends to have weighed so heavily on Mr. Wheeler as to have been a strong contributory cause of his death.

LIFE FOR CAUSE.

"He literally gave his life for the dry cause," said Dr. Francis Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, when he learned at Westerville, Ohio, of Mr. Wheeler's death.

"He was for prohibition because he knew it was right. He fought not for himself but for the cause in which he believed. Throughout his career Mr. Wheeler had a remarkable influence upon the movement against the liquor traffic."

At Washington, where he was the mainspring of all Anti-Saloon League legislative activity, Mr. Wheeler held the respect and admiration even of those who fought him most bitterly.

Senator Edwards of New Jersey, who has vigorously fought the dry cause, said when he heard of Mr. Wheeler's death

"While we were poles apart on the question of the Eighteenth Amendment, I always admired him for his conviction and earnest endeavor to dry up America. I love and respect a fighter, whether he agrees with me or not, and Mr. Wheeler was in invetorate fighter."

Senator Borah of Idaho spoke of Mr. Wheeler as a "faithful, tireless and eminently able advocate of a cause in which he sincerely believed."

Mr. Wheeler, who was born in his father's farm near Brookfield, O., November 10, 1869, once told reporters that he formed his first antagonism to liquor when a drunken farm hand jabbed a pitchfork into his leg.

Dr. Russell obtained the services of Mr. Wheeler in May, 1893, upon the recommendation of several professors at Oberlin College. The young man did not accept the offer to become an assistant to Dr. Russell until after much consideration, for he had never looked upon prohibition or temperance as his life work. Once aligned with the Anti-Saloon League, however, it was not long until he became one of its major officers, becoming superintendent of the Ohio League and finally general counsel.

SCANNED EVERY BILL.

Every bit of legislation remotely affecting the cause of prohibition came under his eye and was bitterly fought or energetically indorsed as it aimed either toward harm or benefit for prohibition.

He kept clock watch, too, on all appointments having to do with prohibition enforcement, and was never slow to hurl himself and the organization he represented against any prospective appointee who, in his opinion, might not best serve the dry cause.

Mr. McBride made public the arrangements for the funeral. The services will be held at the Central M. E. church in Columbus, Ohio, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The Rev. A. C. Schatzmann of Columbus will be in charge. Other speakers will be Mr. McBride, Dr. Russell and Dr. Ernest A. Cherrington of Westerville.

Mr. Wheeler will be buried in Columbus beside the wife whom he himself buried hardly more than a fortnight ago.

N. E. Dry Leader Pays Tribute to Wheeler

Dry workers throughout New England today mourned the passing of Wayne B. Wheeler, characterized by Superintendent William M. Forgrave of the Anti-Saloon League in New England as "the peerless leader of dry America."

Mr. Forgrave paid a glowing tribute to his chief with who has passed.

"In the death of Mr. Wheeler I have lost a warm friend as well as a peerless leader," he declared.

"As representative of New England on the executive committee of the national organization of the Anti-Saloon League, I was closely associated with Mr. Wheeler for many years.

"He was a brilliant man of great ability, who worked untiringly day and night. Coupled with that, he had a rare political insight and was master of strategy. As to his sincerity, which was at times questioned, there is not the slightest doubt.

"As a young man he graduated from law school with brilliant prospects, but he gave up the law to enter the work of the Anti-Saloon League. He started at the bottom at a meagre salary, and worked his way to the top.

"How much of the success of the dry movement in America is due Mr. Wheeler can only be measured by the amount of credit that is due the outstanding leader in any great movement. We shall indeed have a hard time filling his place."

6 TOY MAKERS HELD IN N. Y. BOMB OUTRAGE

New York, Sept. 6 (I.N.S.)—Six young Latin-Americans were held by Brooklyn police today following explosion of a bomb between the Brooklyn Supreme Court building and the Hall of Records, early yesterday.

Authorities are trying to determine whether the men are dangerous, bomb-throwing anarchists who recently perpetrated the New York subway bombing or amateur inventors and toy makers.

In the apartments of the six men, police found an imposing collection of bomb-making materials, including parts of two time bombs and material sufficient to make ten others. There was a collection of machinery, ball bearings, clock work parts, a score of dry cell batteries, several pieces of window sash weights and steel shavings.

Many toy lead monkeys were also found. The police believe the lead monkeys might be an ingenious way of storing materials for bombs.

Most incriminating of all was the finding of maps of public buildings railway terminals, subway stations and railroad bridges. There was also a book with a chapter devoted to the making of bombs, and some anarchistic literature.

Two maps of the New York subway system had circles in red drawn around stations.

Marshal Neal Recovers

State Fire Marshal George C. Neal today returned to his desk at the State House after a week's illness. The marshal has been suffering from a severe cold.

New Brunswick Wet Again After 11 Dry Years

St. John, N. B., Sept. 6 (A.P.).—The intoxicating liquor act became effective today, bringing to an end 11 years of prohibition in the province of New Brunswick.

Nineteen government retail liquor stores under the control of a provincial liquor control board were ready for business at 9 o'clock this morning. After the practice in the province of Quebec, no permits were required for purchasing liquor.

MISS VANZETTI GOES HOME SATURDAY

Miss Luigia Vanzetti, sister of Bartolomeo Vanzetti, who was executed with Nicola Sacco for the South Braintree payroll murders, will sail for Italy with her brother's ashes next Saturday, according to Joseph Langone, North End undertaker.

The undertaker revealed today that he is making arrangements for the sister's passage on the Cunard liner Carpathia, sailing from New York.

Langone's statement was made in refusing to tell the whereabouts of Vanzetti's and Sacco's ashes, after members of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee had also refused to reveal the location.

These committee members said a meeting will be held tomorrow night to consider disposition of the ashes and the future proceedings of the committee.

COOLIDGE TANNED AND IN EXCELLENT HEALTH

Rapid City, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—President Coolidge will return to the White House in perhaps the best health he has enjoyed since entering office. Twelve weeks of work and play have developed his muscles and a deep tan on his face is expected to withstand many days of sultry White House working hours.

Already preparations are being made for the departure from the hills on next Friday night. Two nights later the President expects to reach Washington.

GIRL BARRED BY LEVINE FROM HOP TO U. S.

Grantham, Eng., Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Miss Mabel Boll was almost in tears as she recounted here today the circumstances preventing her from undertaking a transatlantic flight with Charles A. Levine and his pilot, Captain Hinchcliffe.

"How could I endanger the lives of the two men?" asked Miss Boll, told me this morning that it would be impossible for any additional weight to be taken on the Columbia. Mr. Kinkade ("Doc" Kinkade, the airplane expert) showed me the figures and I said: 'That will do. You can count me out of this entirely. I wouldn't risk the lives of those two brave men.'"

Last-Minute Bulletins Prevent Hop by Levine

Cannwell, England, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Last-minute bulletins telling of adverse weather conditions over the Atlantic were all that prevented Charles A. Levine from getting away on his transatlantic hop today.

With his pilot, Captain Walter Hinchcliffe, he superintended the loading of 595 gallons of petrol, prepared rations for the long journey and then waited for the mist over the field to lift, expecting to start soon after sunrise.

At 8:45, after consulting the weather charts, Hinchcliffe announced that the flight would be postponed until tomorrow.

Aug. 31.—Belgrade to Constantinople, 500 miles.

Sept. 1.—Delayed by Turkish authorities.

Sept. 2.—Constantinople to Bagdad, Irak, 1,075 miles.

Sept. 3.—Bagdad to Bender Abbas, Persia, 685 miles.

Sept. 4.—Bender Abbas to Karachi, India, 710 miles.

Sept. 5.—Karachi to Allahabad, 925 miles.

Sept. 6 (eleventh day).—Allahabad, India, to Calcutta, 483 miles, having covered 8,039 miles, or more than one-third their route around world. Eleventh day found holders of present world record, 28½ days, on Siberian Railway, some 2,000 miles north of Calcutta.

Tully Puts Off London Hop Until Tomorrow

Harbor Grace, N. F., Sept. 6 (A.P.)—The hop-off of the London to London plane Sir John Carling was postponed today until tomorrow morning.

The flyers, Captain Terry Tully and Lieutenant James Medcalf, decided to devote today to overhauling their plane, which arrived here yesterday from Caribou, Me.

GERMAN PLANE BREMEN MAY BE NEXT

Dessau, Germany, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—The Junkers airplane Bremen was got ready this afternoon for a hop-off for America in case the weather reports continued favorable.

A message from the weather bureau at Hamburg this morning, saying that the heavy western ocean winds were subsiding, brought the crew of the Bremen to the airdrome early this afternoon, and the plane was got in shape for flying.

The aviators—Herman Oehl, Frederick Loose and Baron Guther von Huenfield—then awaited another weather report which was due from Hamburg at 5 o'clock.

Royal Windsor to Hop for Newfoundland Tomorrow

Scarboro, Me., Sept. 6.—The Canadian plane, "Royal Windsor," will hop off from here to Newfoundland at daybreak tomorrow morning, according to announcement by her pilots, Phil Wood and "Duke Schiller."

Dublin, Sept. 6 (I.N.S.)—Captain R. H. McIntosh, Irish transatlantic flier, who had hoped to hop off today for America, had to postpone the flight on account of fog.

WORLD FLIERS IN CALCUTTA

Calcutta, British India, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Forging steadily ahead in their endeavor to break the record for a voyage around the earth, William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee arrived here today from Allahabad.

The trip, made in 4 hours 40 minutes, added 485 miles to their log, and put them 8,129 miles from their starting point, Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, which they left on August 27.

They flew to Allahabad yesterday from Karachi, a distance of 925 miles, and left the aviation field, six miles outside Karachi City, at 7 o'clock this morning. The next leg, tomorrow, from Calcutta to Rangoon, Burma, is 665 miles.

Courtney to Fly From Spain Direct to New York

Coruna, Spain, Sept. 6 (I.N.S.)—Captain Frank J. Courtney, who is attempting a flight from England to America in his Dornier-Napier flying boat, "Whale," today awaited improvement in weather conditions before attempting a resumption of his venture.

Courtney who was forced down here by stormy weather after leaving Plymouth, England, announced he will fly direct to New York when weather conditions become favorable, instead of stopping at the Azores and Newfoundland as he had previously planned.

Givon, Attacked as "Coward," Will Fly

Paris, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Leon Givon will fly the big Farman Blue Bird to New York as soon as the weather permits, despite the injuries he received in his scuffle the other night with workmen who called him a coward, friends said today.

RUSH ON TO GET PAPERS IN

Distribution of nomination papers to candidates for city council began today at the office of the election commissioners at City Hall Annex.

Virtually all present members of the council, twenty-two in number, appeared in person and received the blanks, which will carry three hundred certified names from their respective wards.

Coupled with delivery of nomination papers was the filing of nine more applications for papers. The first was that of Nellie A. McNulty of No. 2 Kenmore court, West End. This is Martin M. Lomasney's stronghold and the seat is at present occupied by John J. Fitzgerald.

Councilor William G. Lynch of Ward 7 has an opponent in James J. Cody, almost a next-door neighbor. Both live in Columbia road, Dorchester.

Another opponent has appeared to wrest the seat from Councilor John F. Dowd of Ward 8, Roxbury. He is Timothy L. Connolly of No. 109 Clifton street. William Madden has filed from Ward 11, Louis Rabinowitz of No. 175 Quincy street, Roxbury, Ward 134; William J. Prescott of No. 155 Savin Hill avenue, same ward.

Ex-Representative Coleman L. Keller of No. 104 Pleasant street, Dorchester, has filed from Ward 15. Peter J. Murphy of No. 48 Wood avenue, Hyde Park, and Thomas J. Buckley of No. 5 Cedar street, Allston, feel they can win in Ward 20.

HOPE HAMPTON TRIUMPHS

The opening of "My Golden Girl" at the Shubert last night was largely in the nature of a triumph for Hope Hampton, erstwhile screen star. She sang in the approved operetta style, in good voice, to the delight of a crowded house.

As every operetta must have a story, "My Golden Girl" has one, and a very involved one, too. To tell it would be to give away half of the fun of the prospective spectator. It is enough to hint that it has to do with a charming Italian self-styled prince and a wealthy young American girl who would break into exclusive New York society.

But as is usual with operettas, attempting to follow the intricacies of the plot does not at all mar the entertainment. In this show, particularly, there is a wealth of entertainment of both eye and ear variety. The score is by Sigmund Romberg, of "Student Prince" fame, and he has managed to concoct several very tuneful melodies which the audience was assiduously whistling as it emerged from the theatre.

The singing, especially by Miss Hampton and Leonard Ceeley, was good. But the outstanding merit was the splendid staging. The chorus was one of the most spirited that has come to Boston in a long while. There was a group of Albertina Rasch ballet girls who took a hand in the festivities every now and then, and, together with the chorus, they formed an ensemble not only of pulchritude but of varied talents as well.

YOUNGER FOYS ON BILL AT KEITH'S

Elizabeth Brice, The Younger Foys, Frankie Heath, Doris Canfield and Eddie Allen, Lloyd and Bryce and the Reddingtons, are the big numbers in a big holiday week bill at Keith's this week.

Miss Brice, assisted by Frank Kreslar and his "music weavers," ginger up the show and the children of Eddie Foy, six of them, Charley, Mary, Eddie, Jr., Madeline, Irving and Dick, add paprika to the entertainment.

Miss Heath has four song stories all different and all clever. "The Old Neighborhood" is fine and so is the "Butter and Egg Man," and "Broken Hearted." She is theatrical to a degree and takes bow after bow.

Coming Events

Eddie Dowling in "Honeymoon Lane" will take possession of the Tremont next Monday.

"Bonita", a musical play adapted from Augustus Thomas's "Arizona," will move into the Majestic next Monday.

"Cradle Snatchers" will occupy the attention and talents of the St. James players next week.

"After Dark," a mystery play will be the attraction at the Copley on Monday, September 19th.

"The Barker," with Walter Huston, will move into the Hollis next Monday.

"Crime", a melodrama, is announced for the Wilbur, starting Monday, September 19th.

COHAN SHOW IS SPRIGHTLY

Better than all the "O'Brien Girls," smarter than any of the "Little Nelly Kellys," and more ingratiating than 'Rosie O'Reilly," or her cousins is George M. Cohan's newest musical concoction, "The Merry Malones," which bowed to an audience for the first time last night at the Colonial.

It was announced at the outset that because of the tragic accident that befell Arthur Deacon at "rehearsal Sunday the "show must go on," according to stage tradition and that the role of the elder Malone would be played by the producer himself.

It was the job of everyone connected with "The Merry Malones" first, last and always to be merry. And they certainly were good and gay last evening. They sang, they danced, they poked fun—in the nicest sort of way—and they had a plot to unfold. Robert Newton, chief funny man, insisted upon this detail.

Even in the midst of the most interesting digressions, when the wandering "plot" went whooping its way to join the vaudeville specialties that are tied up tight with all such adventures in melodious frivolity even then, Mr. Newton was adamant; so Molly Malone, perfectly charming as played by Polly Walker, won her way at last straight into the arms of the leading man.

In the good old musical comedy way, the Malone folks were seen in various settings. They quarrelled deliciously in their own home, leaned from the windows to watch a Bronx street demonstration, and there attended a pretty party in a fragrant rose garden for the finale.

To land "The Merry Malones" is easy. It is enough to say that it is George Cohan's best musical piece in years.

'BROADWAY' IS THRILL PLAY

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

OCCASIONALLY the theatre comes to its own rescue in times of peril. Just as we had about given up hope of ever again wresting an honest thrill from the spoken drama, along came "Broadway" to the Plymouth to set the playgoer on edge and convince him, in spite of reports to the contrary, there is something new under the sun—something well worth anybody's attention.

For sheer boldness in action, audacity in dialogue and general frankness of purpose "Broadway" sets up a new record and dismisses just one of things which must be seen—not once but often.

No play in recent memories—and we have been entertained by some pretty lively melodramas—has brought as varied an assortment of high powered, vibrating thrills into a local playhouse. "Broadway" proves typical of the region it represents; familiar characters, presented in stark relief through the story; bootleggers, hijackers and chorus girls on common ground in the back room of a Night Club. It is a peep behind the curtains you'll remember for many days.

A little crime now and then is good for any melodrama and besides learning from one dealer in forbidden spirits that bootlegging is the second largest industry in the United States you also are treated to two of the nifties[t] murders ever done in the footlights' bright glare. "Broadway" is almost totally peopled with sinners who finally pass unrepentent into the night. An amiable, egotistical hoofer, a plainclothes policeman, and a dainty chorus girl uphold the play's morality. Tragedy and plenty fun hand in hand, for regardless of its grim, hard moments Broadway is thrice blessed with smart, up-to-the-[min]ute comedy. A perfect balance of rippling fun and cold, hard drama is maintained from curtain to curtain.

Walter Glass, who plays the dancing egotist, may be easily recommended to those in need of a good, honest laugh. Eugene Redding, as the proprietor of the night club; Matt Briggs, as bootlegger and all round bad man, and Helen Raymond, a song bird who has seen better days, give faithful evidence of their own rich talents. Robert W. Craig, pianist-de luxe man, and James S. Kearney, first assistant bootlegger, and Loretto Shea, whose great virtue is widely discussed, must be included in the list of those who make "Broadway" a living, throbbing entertainment.

Measured by any standard "Broadway" is as impressive a drama of everyday life and plain people as we likely to see in another five years.

LIVELY FARCE AT COPLEY

The opening production this season of the Copley Players at the Copley Theatre is the same three-act farce presented by the players a year ago.

The story of "On the Hiring Line" is simple. A harassed business man, whose wife can't keep servants, hires two detectives to act as butler and cook.

He tells the detectives they are to discover any [sus]picious matters in the household. As he is confident that there is nothing to discover he sits back with an air of content, prepared to lord it over his wife forever afterward as to his ability to select servants.

May Edies, as the daughter; Norman Cannon, as a jealous husband, and Elspeth Dudgeon, as the elderly wife who determines to become a detective like her husband, have the same roles which they originally played at the first presentation of the farce.

Ralph Roberts has the role of the business man, and he gives a laughable interpretation of Sherman Fessenden. Richard Whorf is most attractive as Steve, the chauffeur.

Elsie Wagstaff, a newcomer to the Copley Players, is delightful as the spoiled wife. She and Gaby Fay, who appears as Fanny Capron, a flirtatious wife who lives in the neighborhood, are delightful.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" IS BIG HIT AT GAYETY

"Bringing Up Father In Politics," a lively burlesque drawn from the famous newspaper comic strip by George McManus, is the attraction at the Gayety for the week.

Beatrice Harlowe is seen as the irrepressible Maggie and also adds songs and a monologue to the vaudeville. Pete Curley, long a musical comedy star, is at his best as Jiggs. Jimmy Conners does Dinty Moore as the faithful adviser of Jiggs should be played. Juliette Belmont leads the chorus of twenty-four.

New and Stone, juvenile and soubrette, are excellent singers and instrumentalists. Steve Paul in character songs; Steve McKeana in comedy bits, and Nellie Moore and Fannie O'Neil in songs and dances pleased.

"HALF A WIDOW" NOW PLAYING AT MAJESTIC

With several new faces in her entourage, "Half a Widow" shifted hers suits this week from the Wilbur to the Majestic Theatre.

She was warmly greeted at her first "at home" in the new place and was married again, of course, as she has been getting married these many past nights across the street in the next block.

Also, was she nearly widowed, as has been the circumstance in the same nights of the musical play presented by Wally Gluck, that is built around pretty French maidens Red Cross nurses, American soldiers and others in war time and afterward.

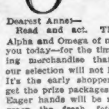
Shopping with Priscilla Price

Dearest Anne—
Read and act. That is the Alpha and Omega of my letter to you today—for the timely, tempting merchandise that's waiting our selection will not linger long. It's the early shopper that will get the prize packages this week. Eager hands will be reaching to grasp the fresh, fetching Fall frocks, lovely lingerie and superior stockings that are offered you at such reasonable prices. And there'll be a scrambling for appointments in the beauty parlors to repair devastations wrought by burning suns and winds. So call for me early, Anne—and on our way.

Mr. Budget Approves

Of buying quality wearing apparel at reasonable prices, and paying for it by Budget's own system out of your weekly salary or allowance. If you've hesitated because you were afraid prices would be higher than standard, do call on Leo Pass, 2nd floor, 25 Huntington Ave.—just a step from Copley Sq. Here you'll find the newest, snappiest, Fall models in frocks and coats, starting at $15.00. A first payment of 1-3 opens your account, the balance conveniently divided to suit you. And prices as low—or a shade lower—than you'd expect at strictly cash shops. Everything from ultra-smart youthful models to stunning stylish stouts.



Why envy others their lovely clothes? Adopt Leo Pass' budget plan and be well dressed without worry or inconvenience.

There Is a Hat

For every head—and such ultra-smart hats, too—at Rose Weiner's Fall opening. Rose Weiner, as of course we all remember, is on the 3rd floor, 15 Winter St. Here is where you'll find just the hat you have been looking for at the price you want to pay. Even the lovely new imports which have just arrived, in velours, felts and velvets in all the newest shades, are priced so reasonably. If you would be distinctly individual, let Rose Weiner model a hat right on your head from supple Soleil felts or imported velours, $10.60 and up. Or a few clicks and flicks more of Rose Weiner's skillful fingers will adapt her ready-to-wear models to your individual figure and measurements. Don't decide on your new hat, Anne, until you've seen Rose Weiner's.

Place a Price

On foot comfort. Just down the sum you'd gladly pay to be rid of all the ills that feet—both young and old—are heir to. Then take just $3.00, a fraction of the sum I know you figured, and invest it in a pair of Dr. Saul's Fitted-to-Measure shoes, with scientific built-in arch supports. They come in smart, modish models in suede, patent, viei, satin or calf. And for the shoes on hand, invest $2.50 with Dr. Saul for a marvellous new pair of Callous Correctors. Fit invisibly in any shoe. Take pressure off anterior arch, quickly overcoming callouses, which, we know, are sure signs of arch trouble.

Dr. Saul's scientific treatments bring quick relief for all foot troubles, including corns, callouses and varicose veins. Dr. Saul is my competent podiatrist-chiropodist, 3rd floor, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St.

Fifth Avenue Moves

Right up to our own Winter St. where No. 41, in the Amherst Bldg., you'll find the Chic Gown Shop, the home of the same ultra-smart, exclusive, one-of-a-kind models that are being shown this very minute on Fifth Avenue. But what a difference in the price! At this Fall Opening superlatively attractive dresses start at $15.00—though don't get the impression, Anne, that this is a $15.00 dress shop, for it's not. Gowns regularly $25.00 and $45.00 elsewhere are $25.00 here, including gorgeous and transparent velvet combinations and satins and crepes of exquisite quality. The most gorgeous evening gowns start at $25.00 and when it comes to afternoon gowns, my adjectives fail me. I selected a beautiful crepe for you in the new Patou blue, with overlapping pointed petals of transparent velvet at the bottom. Truly a dream dress, Anne, and scores of others equally lovely. At the Chic Shop, 41 Winter Street.

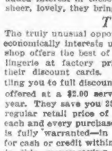
Again the Mode Changes,

Bringing many new, smart ensembles. To complement every color, Lucille, celebrated couturiers of Paris, has created new and subtle shades for those favorites of ours, Holeproof Hosiery, Talbot's, of course, 403 Washington St., is Holeproof Headquarters, and if you'd know what's what in correct color ensembles, do step in and let the young lady at the Holeproof counter show you the latest color charts. These are truly helpful. If, for instance, you have a golden brown coat, the chart shows the shade, also the High Command complementary color appropriate for a frock, the new Carnival shade in harmonizing Holeproof Hose and Stroller Tan for shoes.

Color schemes in grays, blues, and other popular tones are also correctly and modishly worked out. There is no obligation to buy in this friendly shop—but I know you'll want to when you see these exquisite Fall colorings in full fashioned Holeproof. The ultimate in chic because fashioned at the style centre of the world, by Lucille, color specialist and style creator extraordinary—exclusively for Holeproof. This Universe called at Talbot's last Tuesday and was so delighted to find a complete assortment of Holeproof, her favorite stockings, and she warmly recommended them to the anonymous gathering who greeted her. The wearing qualities of Holeproof have, of course, been recognized for the last half century—and now lovely new shades create added interest in these beautiful hose, $1.60, $1.50 and $1.85. Clear, sheer, lovely, they bring stunning smartness to graceful limbs.

The Opportunity—

The truly unusual opportunity—to purchase quality undies and hosiery economically interests us all. So harken to me! A reliable specialty shop offers the best of hosiery and fine lingerie at factory prices to holders of their discount cards. These cards, entitling you to full discounts for one year, are offered at a $2.00 service charge for the year. They save you 25 per cent. over the regular retail price of standard goods on cash and every purchase. All merchandise is fully warranted—in fact, is returnable for cash or credit within 7 days. And where is this money-saving opportunity? At Roddy's, 8th floor, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St. Do drop in just to look over this lovely merchandise. There is absolutely no obligation to buy. You'll enthuse as I did over a stunning black crepe de chine slip, black lace and ribbon-flowered trimmed, at $3.50 less than I saw the same garment elsewhere. Vanity Fair gloves at less than regular price. Dance sets and adorable petalled teddies equally reduced. And pajamas ditto. And long-wearing, full-fashioned stockings, service or chiffons, at rock-bottom prices. Outsizes, too, in hosiery and frillies. Here's the place to buy trousseaux and shower gifts to advantage. And for the girl who buys better merchandise to save 25c on every dollar, while she who has had to economize on cheaper lines can now enjoy longer wearing, quality merchandise for the same money. The savings on four pairs of stockings alone more than covers your year's membership card! Get yours, Anne, at Roddy's, at 110 Tremont Street.



Announcement Extraordinaire!

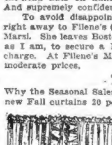
In Vienna, scarcely second to Paris for its well-dressed women, Mme. Marsi, expert milliner, serves a select clientele. Daily her deft fingers mold hats to suit the individual needs of her smart following, which includes world-famous actresses as well as ladies of the nobility. Mme. Marsi is now making a visit at Filene's, where she will mold-hats-to-the-heads of Boston women, by appointment and without extra charge.

And with her have come half a thousand Austrian velours and felt hoods from which she personally selected in Vienna. They will be very fashionable this season and particularly becoming under her deft fingers. Exquisite imported ornaments and ribbons, too—and valuable advice from Mme. Marsi on correct methods of caring for the finest of these long-wearing Austrian velours. With one or two of these smart molded-to-the-head hats on hand, lovely woman is ready for any occasion. And supremely confident of looking distinctly "different."

To avoid disappointment, Anne, I'd better telephone right away to Filene's (Hancock 3800) for an appointment with Mme. Marsi. She leaves Boston September 10, and I know you are anxious, as I am, to secure a Marsi molded hat for just the usual molding charge. At Filene's Millinery Department, home of modish hats at moderate prices.

The Real Reason

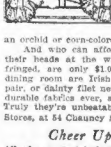
Why the Seasonal Sales Stores, 54 Chauncy Street, can afford to sell new Fall curtains 30 per cent. lower than elsewhere is because they carry no charge accounts, make no deliveries, and pay no high rent. I found nearly 400 new curtain styles here at the Seasonal Sales Shop—the only store in Boston devoted entirely to curtains. And such lovely curtains. Among my favorites was a Point d'Esprit in Kriss Kross style, $3.98 a pair, elsewhere as high as $8.00. Of the finest quality with a dainty lace edge, and more effective than I can tell you. Bedroom curtains of dotted marquisette were dainty, too. $1.98 a pair in white and ecru. The texture was so fine I could hardly tell it from Point d'Esprit. The Seasonal Sales Stores specialize, too, you know, in the most fascinating color combinations in Irish Point and valances by the yard. To truly transform your most uninteresting room drape the windows with the Kriss Kross Point d'Esprit curtains, topped with an orchid or corn-colored rayon ruffled valance.



And who can afford to permit weather-worn curtains to hang their heads at the windows when lustrous rayon panels, bullion fringed, are only $1.00 each? Equally appropriate for living or dining room are Irish Point Lace curtains, finest quality, $3.00 a pair, or dainty filet net straight curtains at $2.75. One of the most durable fabrics ever, and much in demand for dining rooms or dens. Truly they're unbeatable, Anne, these values at the Seasonal Sales Stores, at 54 Chauncy St., just a step from the subway.

Cheer Up!

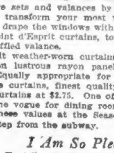
All of you straight-haired sisters who mourn and moan for the beauty and becomingness of naturally curly hair. Go to Mary F. Lawlor for a permanent wave that will be a thing of beauty and a joy for many months to come. By making an appointment before September 15, you can take advantage of her Summer price of $10.00, reduced from $15.00. Whether you're a business girl, a social butterfly, or a hurried housewife, you'll find a permanent an investment in beauty and an economy in time. Miss Lawlor uses the Keeno Stein Oil method, which means lovely undulating waves that make the woman with naturally wavy hair envy the beauty of yours. And don't make the mistake of thinking of a permanent as a summer luxury. It's a year round real necessity.



Miss Lawlor is on the 6th floor at No. 120 Tremont St., and her telephone is Hancock 3909. Evening work by appointment.

I Am So Pleased

To tell you that Hoffman's are holding their Annual Sale. You have until Wednesday night, September 14, to profit by the greatly reduced prices in Hoffman's entire stock of hosiery, underwear, powder and perfumes. Each item reduced to actual cost—and all regular stock, too, first quality.



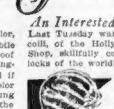
Full-fashioned hosiery, of finest pure thread silk in service weights, $1.19 ($1.75 values) and $1.00 ($1.50 values). Beautiful all-silk chiffons reduced from $2.00 to $1.29, and from $1.75 to $1.00. The wanted black heels in all-silk chiffon, regularly $2.00, are now $1.29. And in service weight $1.25, reduced from $1.85.

Splendid values in glove silk underwear, too, as well as crepe de chine step-ins, chemises, slips, gowns, and pajamas.

The sale is in progress at Hoffman's three stores, shop 22, second floor, Little Building, 99 Boylston Street, Boston; 217 Pleasant Street, Malden; 121 Munroe Street, Lynn.

An Interested Audience

Last Tuesday watched Mr. Trocolli, of the Hollywood Bobbing Shop, skillfully coax the lovely locks of the world's loveliest girl into even lovelier waves and ripples. YOU can step in any day and see Mr. Trocolli transforming plain, everyday folks into butterflies of beauty. My own not-so-plain assistant entered the ranks of real beauties last week, thanks to one of Mr. Trocolli's ultra-smart bobs and superlatively becoming finger waves. And now, good news. To accommodate his many customers just returning from vacations and anxious to take advantage of the $10.00 Summer price for a Nestle Circuline permanent wave, Mr. Trocolli has postponed till September 15 the closing date of his special reduced rate. So act NOW, if you want the Perfect Permanent at a Prudent Price. And don't forget that for marcels, dyeing, bleaching, shampoos, and scientific facials, the Hollywood Shop, 3rd floor, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St., is always par excellence. Tel. Con. 6137.



Without Rival

As a skin-whitener and beautifier is a famous Cucumber Cream, by that King of Cosmetitians, Lesquendie of Paris. An important member of the Lesquendie family, and found in Boston only on the toilet goods counter of Meyer Jonasson Co., at Tremont and Boylston Sts. $2.00. It keeps the skin beautifully clear and soft, protected against wind and sun, and applies well-bred pores with light nourishment through its precious French oils. This magic Cucumber Cream quickly disposes of unbecoming freckles, tan, and sunburn, too. And, by the way, Anne, you wanted me to remind you that you need another Tussy lipstick at Meyer Jonasson's, the lasting, waterproof treasure that's $1.00. Also a box of that becoming, invisible White Rouge, at 50c. And don't forget our excellent motto: "When in doubt just what you need in toilet goods, go to Meyer Jonasson's."

Dig Deep

Dear Anne, into that precious horde of shining dollars you're saving for wise investment. You can make both the investment and the saving right up at Landfield's Stocking Shop, 3rd floor, 8 Winter Street, where just 780 pair silk chiffon or service stock to be sold waiting for you at $1.29 a pair, three pair for $3.10.

Absolutely perfect, full fashioned, pure silk and covered by Landfield's free repair service that trebles the average life of any stocking. There are even pointed heels among these numbers which are regular $1.75, $2.00 and $2.25 values. It's just a case of first come, first served, so let's be among the fortunate first. I understand that there are a few pieces of lovely crepe de chine and knit silk undies at rare prices from last week's sale, too.

Every Woman Knows

How embarrassing and disfiguring is superfluous hair. But all women do not seem to know the dangers of amateur methods of removing the growth — the temporary results that all too often bring coarser hairs that grow more stubbornly than before. There is but one safe and sane cure for superfluous hair, moles and other facial disfigurements — and that's the electric needle in the hands of an expert operator. Yes, certainly, I'm referring to Miss E. G. Sparkes, Room 602, 120 Tremont St. (Hancock 7592.) Leading physicians endorse Miss Sparkes' work. Her methods are new, safe and efficacious. Her rates reasonable. Why not step in and consult with her without obligation?

Autumn Automatically

Returns. If only youth would come back each year. It won't, but we should it for a long time if we give our skins proper care. A treatment that means the faithful daily use of Virozol Swedish Free Bath and Virozo Cream. No matter how worry we may be, we certainly should devote five minutes every night to removing the day's dirt and doing up tissues with this famous astringent. Our bodies, the residence of rest, the glow from swiftly flowing blood and the pearly cleansers of pores from poisonous congested poisons. The Almond Cream soothes, nourishes, cools and comforts the net-work of fretted nerves. Gently bleaches Summer tan and freckles, too. Conrad & Co. carries the Virozol astringent, $1.25, and Almond Cream, $1.00.

And now adios, Anne, 'til tomorrow.

Faithfully yours,
PRISCILLA

ALL BOY, GIRL SCOUTS INVITED TO REVERE

Only one day more to wait, Boy and Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls! At noon tomorrow Revere Beach will be thrown open to you as your own for a full afternoon of fun and frolic as guests of the Boy Scout Editor of the Boston Evening American.

Every uniformed Scout and Campfire Girl is invited to take advantage of the invitation of the editor to play with him at Revere tomorrow. Fifteen of the best of the beach entertainments will be free to all of the editor's guests who arm themselves with a strip of tickets he will give them for the mere asking.

The tickets will be distributed from the Boy Scout Editor's office in the Boston Evening American building, Winthrop Square, or at the booth of the Thunderbolt on Revere Beach to every girl and boy in a scout or campfire uniform who request them this afternoon and tomorrow.

WILL DIRECT MARCH.

In addition to the fifteen beach entertainment features, the program will include a variety of games and a parade of scoutdom's finest. Colonel H. D. Comerais, widely known officer of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, has accepted the editor's invitation to direct the array of scouts in their march before admiring throngs along the strandway.

Scout executives are urged to assist their troops to arrange for representation in this parade, which will climax a day of thrills.

Judging by the oral and written commendation of his plan, the Boy Scout Editor has the good wishes of all scoutdom for the success of his field day. Officials and others interested in the scout movement have been unanimous in their endorsement of such a plan to unite the flower of Youth and girlhood in an afternoon of clean and mirthsome frolic.

PLENTY OF TICKETS.

The strip of tickets to be distributed by the editor will admit its holder to the following 15 amusements on the beach: the Airplane Whirl, Love's Lottery, Hippodrome Merry-Go-Round, Derby Racer, Lee and Outlaw, The Pit, U Come In, Hey Day, Hurley's Hurdlers, Hurley's Whip, Hurley's Scrambler, The Caterpillar, Omar's Temple of Mystery, the other Law and Outlaw and the Freak Show.

No Boy or Girl Scout or Campfire Girl need fear the editor will run short of ticket strips, for he purchased a strip for every possible applicant so that no one can be disappointed. Every member of every troop and campfire circle in Greater Boston is assured of a wonderful time. Tomorrow afternoon, from 12 o'clock to 5 o'clock, Revere Beach will be their very own.

SEEK FIREBUGS IN REVERE

With the occupants away on a trip in their new automobile, fire of supposed incendiary origin today destroyed the home of Patrick Carola at No. 19 Essex street, Revere, causing a loss estimated at $2,000 and threatening nearby dwellings.

The fire stubbornly resisted efforts of firemen who found the interior of roaring furnace, and flames shooting from the windows, when they arrived.

Two men were seen by neighbors running through the yard shortly before the fire was discovered. Revere authorities notified the State fire marshal and an investigation will be made. Police have a description of the two men.

NEWSPAPER DELEGATES AT FUNERAL OF W. J. BLAKE

Delegations representing each of the newspaper crafts attended funeral services at the Church of St. Francis of Assisi today for William J. Blake, president of the Boston Mailers' Union. The late president, who was employed by the Boston Globe, lived at No. 27 Leeds street, Medford. A solemn high mass of requiem was sung by the Rev. Thomas Golding, pastor of St. Francis. He was assisted in the ceremonies by the Rev. William Foley and the Rev. Martin Curran.

Pallbearers were Robert T. Allen, acting president of the Newspaper Union; Joseph Fennessey, president of the Photo-Engravers Union; M. J. Flynn, secretary of the Newspaper Writers Union; John J. McQuade, representing the Typographical Union; Eugene Murphy, representing the Globe mail room, and Dennis and Henry Murphy, representing the Holy Name Society. Burial was at Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

MANY PRIESTS ATTEND FUNERAL OF MGR. BRADY

Fall River, Sept. 6.—Scores of prominent clergymen attended the funeral here today for the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Daniel A. Brady, vicar-general of the diocese of Mobile, Ala., who died suddenly while on a visit to his family here.

At 8S. Peter and Paul's Church the Rev. William O. Brady of St. Paul, Minn., a nephew of the deceased, celebrated a solemn high mass of requiem, assisted by the Rev. Peter R. McGee of Attleboro and the Rev. John F. Doyle of Fall River. The eulogy was delivered by the Rev. James Coffey of New Bedford. The Rt. Rev. Mgr. William A. Kerrigan of Birmingham, Ala., represented the Bishop of Mobile at the funeral. Interment was in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Fall River.

MEDFORD MAN HURT BY ELEVATOR FALL IN HUB

William F. Buckley, seventy-six, of No. 241 Boston avenue, Medford Hillside, fell fifteen feet today in the elevator shaft of the building at No. 815 Boylston street, Back Bay, sustaining injuries that necessitated placing his name on the danger list at City Hospital.

Buckley, who was employed in the Boylston street building, apparently thought the elevator was on the first floor when it was above.

Helps Out in Menu

If it is true, as so often maintained, that the most interesting things are those we know the least about then cheese is one of our most interesting foods. For really very few people are familiar with all of its many virtues.

Is it they ask me, really difficult to digest, and therefore to be eaten sparingly, or can we believe modern dieticians who tell us that cheese is one of our best food dishes to be partaken of freely and often?

May I rise to remark very emphatically that cheese is one of our finest foods, rich in food value, and containing a high percentage of protein and fat, and the valuable mineral salts and vitamins.

It is not difficult to digest if properly cooked. Cheese is cooked as soon as it is melted. If you over-cook it, the fats separate it becomes tough and leathery, and consequently difficult to digest. Therefore, if you are using cheese in such dishes as white sauce, for instance, do not add the cheese until the sauce is entirely cooked.

It is because cheese is often served with a heavy dessert such as mince pie or plum pudding and distressed feelings have followed these orgies, that there is a belief by some people that the cheese in itself was hard to digest. It was the pie or pudding that was at fault.

Cheese is the perfect complement of a light salad or of fresh fruit. In the best restaurants and dining rooms, cheeses are served either just before or with fruit as the indistinguishable flavor of the cheese brings out to best advantage the fine acid taste of the fruit, often lost when fruit follows immediately the heavier courses.

Besides being a delicate, highly concentrated food, cheese is extremely economical as a meat substitute.

According to the famous Gerry, prince of table authorities, many a delightful meal can be planned around a hot cheese dish. One of the most delicious is a casserole such as is illustrated on this page, the recipe for which I am attaching herewith."

CHEESE IN SHELLS—1 cup bread crumbs, 2 eggs, ¼ pound cheese 2 tbsp. melted butter, milk, ¼ tsp. salt, paprika.

Soak bread crumbs in milk to cover. Add eggs well beaten. Stir in cheese, grated, melted butter and seasoning. Sprinkle with paprika and bake quickly until a delicate brown. Serve with salad.

For Peachy Desserts

DOESN'T it make your mouth water just to behold the baskets of ripe, yellow peaches stacked high at the corner fruit store? M-m-m-m. And doesn't your inner eye immediately see visions of peach pie, baked peach pudding, or peach shortcake? Of all the epicurean delights, surely peach deserts take the lead on almost every count.

Peach pie is always a favorite, and when I speak of pie, I mean not only the filling, but the all-important crust, because if one must resort to a knife, your dessert may be considered a dismal failure and a total loss.

To prepare a pastry that always proves successful, measure 2 cups sifted pastry flour, add ¾ tsp. salt, fifty-two, then cut in 8 tbsp. or ½ cup pure lard. Mix in about ½ cup cold water, just enough to bind the dough together. Toss on slightly floured board and divide. Roll out lower crust and line pie plate. Moisten rim with cold water; roll out upper crust. Make incisions in top. Fill with following peach mixture, and bake in hot oven for 8 minutes. Reduce heat and bake in moderate oven for 45 minutes.

PEACH FILLING—6 medium-sized peaches, 3 tbsp. flour, ¼ tsp. salt.

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Add to sliced peaches. Mix well and turn into pie pan lined with the pastry. Put on upper crust and bake.

DEEP PEACH PUDDING—6 to 8 peaches, 1 cup sugar, 2 tbsp. lard, ½ cup milk, 1½ cups sifted pastry flour, 1 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt.

Cream lard and sugar, then add well beaten egg and beat thoroughly. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk to first mixture. Fill in buttered baking dish two-thirds full of peaches peeled and quartered. Pour over batter and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Serve hot with whipped cream or foamy sauce.

PEACH SHORTCAKE—2 cups pastry flour, 2 tbsps. sugar, ¾ tsp. salt, 3½ tsp. baking powder, 4 tbsp. lard, 2-3 cup milk, 1 egg.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Work in lard. Beat the egg until light. Pour on the milk. Then add to the dry ingredients. Mix well and toss on floured board. Pat lightly and cut with biscuit cutter or divide into two parts.

Roll out and bake in greased layer cake pans. Bake 12 minutes in a hot oven. Split. Spread with butter. Have peaches sliced and slightly sweetened, and put between and on top of shortcake. Top with whipped cream.

CANNED SOUPS taste better if you will add to each can one teaspoonful of LEA & PERRINS' SAUCE

Pretzels Do Come Back

PERHAPS winners don't come back so often in the sporting world, but pretzels have certainly come back stronger than ever in culinary circles.

After receiving a knockout blow at the time the Eighteenth Amendment became effective, they have slowly but surely won their way back to general popularity.

Most cracker bakers discontinued making pretzels during the war and for several years afterwards, because they thought that the pretzel served simply as a chaperone for the foaming stein, and having lost its sparring partner would drop out of the game for good. But not so.

The pretzel is back in even better standing than before. It has gone into society, and we now meet it hob-nobbing with salads, ice-cream and lemonade; moreover, it has had some plastic treatments, and besides the still popular lovers' knot, has achieved new and up-to-date disguises. I met one the other day as slim and straight and slender as a college boy's cane.

And the children like them too. Besides being so jolly and crunchy and tasty, they are healthful and easy to digest, and are excellent "teeth food" because they require considerable chewing and contain salts and minerals that go into the building of children's teeth and bones.

Is Good for Rarebits

HAVE you been looking for something new in a sandwich spread, or a tasty if hasty rarebit, baked macaroni or potato souffle?

Here is a new cheese food, made by a process which retains the nutritive value of whole milk—the milk sugar, milk proteins and body-building milk mineral elements lost in making ordinary cheese. It is more nutritious than milk. Digested as easily as milk, and acts as an aid to the digestion of other foods.

This cheese is really more than cheese. Like milk, it should be included in the diet of everyone—children, elderly persons, even invalids. It is a regulative food that balances the diet.

Try it in your next rarebit or macaroni and cheese dish, and enjoy the wonderful flavor. Will not string or become lumpy in cooking, either. It has won legions of friends by its delightful new flavor and smooth, creamy texture, and above all because of its easy digestibility.

Pea Soup Is Handy

NO dinner is complete without a wholesome, nourishing soup, and it is a wise mother who serves good pea soup as a regular dish on her table, not only for the sake of her children but for every one in the family.

Canned condensed pea soup is pure, rich, wholesome vegetable food—the kind of food that contributes so much to rosy, vigorous health. Sweet delicious peas are blended in a smooth puree, with golden country butter and delicate seasoning. A soup that mothers can trust for its appealing pea flavor. Especially attractive prepared as cream of pea soup according to the simple directions on the label.

Good news about Chocolate Sauce

If you've ever struggled with a chocolate sauce that simply wouldn't "come right"—if you have ever stirred and stirred and stirred—if you've ever finally had to serve a sauce that was pretty disappointing—then this wonderful recipe is meant for you!

Try it—and your troubles are over. You can make perfect chocolate sauce in a jiffy! It's the Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk that does the trick and makes the result so sure.

Chocolate Sauce for Ice Cream

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1½ cups Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Few grains of salt

Melt the chocolate over hot water. Add one-half cup condensed milk and stir over hot water for about one minute until it thickens. Remove from the stove and stir in the remainder of the milk. This may be served immediately but it will keep in a cool place for a few days.

Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk is not just plain "canned milk". It is a delicious blend of pure, fresh, full-cream country milk and finest sugar. Rich and thick and creamy, because most of the water has been removed. And smooth—with a smoothness no home blending can equal. That's why Standard Milk is the best milk for any recipe that requires both milk and sugar—for desserts, hot breads, salad dressings, icings, candies, etc.

And do you know about Standard Milk for coffee? It creams-and-sugars—so richly and deliciously—at one-half the cost of separate cream and sugar! A worth-while saving—and coffee at its golden, mellow best!...Get Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk from your grocer today. Remember, it keeps fresh for days after the can is opened—even without ice.

Murdered sleep

SLEEP that brings no rest to ease and strengthen. Empty sleep—that drives tense nerves and aching muscles back to weary bodies! No wonder people crack and break when precious sleep is murdered . . . the pity is they so seldom realize the trouble.

What a tragedy, indeed, that so few realize the dreadful suffering constipation causes! How many sleepless nights and lifeless days could be remedied if they but knew!

Constipation ruins health and wrecks beauty. It saps strength and destroys energy. It sickens the body and causes disease after disease. And it could all be so easily relieved—so surely prevented! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation safely, promptly. To prevent it ever getting its hold!

Why part-bran products fail!

ALL-BRAN has "bulk." This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the digestive system. And it gently distends the intestines — purifying, removing poisonous wastes. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is so small that there is seldom enough to do this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN—because it is 100% bran and performs a 100% work!

No need for habit-forming pills!

How different from dangerous pills and drugs—which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased, and sometimes cause actual injury! ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—and add fruit or honey for an extra treat. Let it soak a few moments in the milk to bring out all its nut-like flavor.

Serve it with other cereals. In soups. Try the recipes on every package. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily — in chronic cases, with every meal.

Don't accept a part-bran substitute. At best it can be but partially effective. Insist on genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants —on diners. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

India Tea or a blend containing India Tea makes the best Iced Tea

DURING hot weather there is no drink in the world so permanently cooling, so delicious, and yet so sustaining as iced tea!

You can make it at home or get a glassful from your favourite soda fountain! It revives your energy. It creates new vigour. But be sure you get India Tea or a blend containing India Tea. This is the correct way to make Iced India Tea at home:

Use an earthenware teapot previously warmed—Put into it at least one teaspoonful of India Tea for each glass of tea—the stronger the tea the better. Be sure the water is poured into the teapot the moment it boils and allow to stand for 4 or 5 minutes to infuse—Fill each glass with cracked ice, add a slice of lemon, and pour in the tea—Add sugar to taste.

You'll like it best if you use India Tea or a blend containing India Tea

BETTY ALDEN'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Myopian Horse Show Is Best in Long List Conducted by the Famous Old Essex County Club

MRS. BAYARD TUCKERMAN AND DAUGHTER, PHYLLIS

IN ALL ITS LONG AND SPIRITED HISTORY I DOUBT IF MYOPIA HUNT CLUB EVER staged a finer horse show than yesterday's. It was the sort of spectacle on which to lavish superlatives. The sleekest of mounts, the clearest of skies, the largest of galleries, the smoothest of procedure, and even a thrilling spill or two by way of super excitement.

BAYARD TUCKERMAN, JR., A Myopian devoted to King Horse, opined that yesterday the crowd was the biggest in years, and he might have added that never did horse show company arrive in more sorts and sizes of vehicles. Motors by the hundreds were there, of course, but what caught the eye particularly was the motley array of horse-drawn vehicles lined up on the southern side of the ring. Myopians with gladsome informality reverted to the mauve decade and had rolled out from their coach house seclusion all manner of surreys, phaetons, traps, coaches, carryalls and whatnot. Even the humble farm wagon and the spacious haycart did show duty.

MRS. CHARLES FANNING MAYER'S farm cart, inscribed Juniper Ridge, held an interested company, with Mrs. Ayer herself a central figure, very smart and youthful in laurel green. Over across the ring, where a marquee or two shed pleasant shade, was to be found a congenial and smart company. In it were Mrs. Francis I. Amory, Jr., giving the touch piquant to a white frock with knotted kerchief; Mrs. Edward L. Bigelow in blue, with her lovely, small daughter, Olivia; Mrs. Frederick Busk in printed chiffon, Mrs. Bernard Wood in blue, over from Tuxedo Park for an Autumn stay at the Prince farmhouse. Edward Bigelow had his small son at the show.

MRS. QUINCY SHAW, JR., looked out on the passing picture from beneath a wide blue hat, and her frock was Chinese yellow jersey. Miss Eleanor Mason's two-toned silk frock and wide hat were deep blue. Mrs. Augustus Goodwin wore a pink frock. Mrs. Sumner Pingree and Mrs. John J. Howard laid emphasis on smart simplicity and wore hand-drawn silk frocks and wide hats. Mrs. Charlotte Taylor, riding her mother's (Mrs. Charles Wilson Taintor) mounts, were turned out informally in golden brown tweeds, most becoming. On the other hand, Miss Alice Thorndike, popular Myopian, with a string of splendid horses, was in formal attire, dark blue melton and topper. Of course, hunts teams brought out the brilliant pink that dresses up a show so tremendously and delights the gallery. James Appleton, putting the mettlesome "Gray Bess" over the hurdles perfectly, won the master's challenge cup, much to the general satisfaction. The handsome gray is a favorite, as is Mr. Appleton, master of fox hounds for Myopia.

LOOKING AS BOYISH AS DID her husband, Mrs. Freddy Ayer, with Mr. Ayer, was in and out of the show continuously in several classes. Mrs. Ayer's spill was all part of the day's work for that spirited rider. Miss Ayer, trim in whipcord, is slenderly boyish as she sails over the hurdles. Both Miss Theodora and Miss Anne Ayer ride superbly. But that is a statement that goes for the entire Myopia set, who think nothing of a stiff dozen of miles straight across country as before-breakfast program each day.

TRADES UNION STRIKES AT BALDWIN

Edinburgh, Scotland, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—The Trades Union Congress in session here, replying to Premier Baldwin's appeal for industrial peace, today carried by general acclamation a resolution demanding the immediate repeal of the trade unions act (restricting certain trade union activities) and, failing this, urging that a general election be called immediately.

The resolution emphasized that the workers were desirous for industrial peace. It said, however, that peace was hindered by the government's industrial legislative policy, its attacks on the workers' wages, its action in lengthening the miners' hours of work, and the "deliberate class bias displayed in trade disputes and in the trade unions act." The resolution said unless this act were repealed, the country should be given an opportunity of pronouncing a verdict on the government's policy.

MARCUS LOEW

MARCUS LOEW, ILL 3 MONTHS, DIES IN SLEEP

New York, Sept. 6.—Marcus Loew, whose name is identified with the motion picture industry around the world, died in his sleep at his palatial home in Glen Cove, L. I.

The owner of the nation-wide chain of motion picture and vaudeville theatres had been ill for three months. He was first stricken with pneumonia and, after a partial recovery, he has been seeking to regain his health in travel and medical treatment.

Two weeks ago, accompanied by his physician and nurse, he went to Saratoga Springs, hoping that rest and a course of treatment at the famous spa would renew his vitality.

He returned Sunday to his Glen Cove home on his yacht Carolin and retired early.

Mr. Loew was 55 years old May 7. He was born in New York in the famous old East Side, which has produced so many self-made men. In 1894 he was married to Carrie Rosenheim.

East Side Mourns Passing of Loew

New York, Sept. 6.—Marcus Loew believe in laughter. "I want my patrons to laugh and be happy," he used to say. "Amusing people is my business."

To the hundreds who trouped to his office in search of his recipe for success the mild-mannered, benign faced little man would say kindly:

"There is only one secret to success and this is it: If you want to make good never grow tired of your job."

Three words were characteristic of Marcus Loew's personality: organization—system—order." He used this phrase as his business slogan. There was one test he applied in his dealings in his business world and to this he attributed the success of his phenomenal career.

"Give people what they want. Give them their money's worth. People will stand in line outside your door, just as they stand at mine, if you know how to please them—how to make them happy."

Loew's Boston Manager Pays Affectionate Tribute

Perhaps no one in Boston was so deeply affected by the news of Marcus Loew's untimely death as was Victor J. Morris, who for seventeen years has successfully carried on Mr. Loew's theatrical activities in this city.

The Orpheum manager paid a sincere tribute to the memory of Mr. Loew with whom he was closely associated. "The amusement world has lost one of its most staunch supporters in the passing of Marcus Loew," said Mr. Morris.

"He was one of the most capable and respected leaders in the show world, and his determination to succeed in whatever undertaking, carried him to the goal of fame, fortune and influence. His loss will be keenly felt by the entire theatrical profession."

JOHN D. SPEAKS AND SINGS AT FLAG-RAISING

Pocantico Hills, N. Y., Sept. 6 (A.P.)—John D. Rockefeller can be a speechmaker and a singer if the occasion calls for it. At a flag raising on the lawn of a Catholic rectory he spoke in praise of the pastor, the Rev. Alonzo C. Dineen, who served as a chaplain overseas, and he joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

TWO LOST WITH PLANE, ONE SURVIVES

Greenville, Me., Sept. 6 (A.P.).—Two lives are believed to have been lost in an accident to a State forestry plane which sank in Caucomgomoc Lake in northern Piscataquis County yesterday.

Definite information of the accident, obtained today by Deputy Sheriff Adelbert G. Rogers from a landowner named Wheaton, one of the three occupants of the plane, was that George Maxim, the pilot, and Amos Thibodeau, Jr., 19, of Greenville, probably had been drowned while attempting to swim ashore with Wheaton.

The plane, equipped with pontoons, had been taxiing on the lake. A high wind made the water rough and as the plane started to take the air one of the pontoons gave way and the plane sank.

Wheaton swam ashore, but was unable to rescue his companions. He made his way six miles through the woods to the nearest telephone. Forestry workers and paper mill employes went to the scene, but could find no trace of Maxim and Thibodeau or of the plane. The lake was being dragged today.

Maxim was in the aviation service in the World War. He was a grand nephew of the late Sir Hiram Maxim.

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Salient Points of the Bidding

West's bid of Diamond with five to the Jackson, though unusual, was fully justified especially as a defensive bid, by reasons of his suit—a queen, tricks in Hearts and Clubs.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. East performs shifts to Clubs, holding away from his King. The return of a Diamond or the lead of a Spade would give Declarer a chance to discard a losing Club on the King of Diamonds. While [illegible] lead of a Club might not prove disastrous, the possible lead of a second Club must be avoided. West, realizing that Declarer [illegible] would try to ruff one of his Clubs in dummy, upon which [illegible] and another to East's Club lead was the correct one. [illegible] the safety play [illegible] guarded. Trick 3. West leads the Ace of [illegible] trumped, the [illegible] Declarer [illegible] Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. A STORY OF A GIRL THAT WOULDN'T

She said "No" to the rich man who offered her a wedding and wealth and almost fell victim to a scoundrel. Begin "Becky" in next Monday's American. It's the cream of them all as a serial story.

POMEROY HOPES FOR PARDON

World's Most Famous Lifer Locked Up Before Autos or Flappers Were Invented

Fifty-one years as an inmate of the State Prison at Charlestown is being completed today by Jesse Pomeroy, the world's most famous "lifer."

Back on September 7, 1876, when a boy just under seventeen years of age, but with almost three years of jail life lived while awaiting the State Prison sentence, "Gran' Pa" entered the institution at Charlestown and has never since been outside the gates.

Boston had almost emerged completely from the ashes of the big fire when his eyes were turned away from the free world. There were no automobiles, no elevated trains, no airplanes and no flappers; the Civil War veterans, youths of a younger average age than the present Legionnaires, were just getting used to their new organization called the Grand Army of the Republic; Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley was a South Boston kid interested chiefly in his alm with a stone and with his pals in the "Baker's Dozen"; Rutherford B. Hayes was president and a stickler for Civil Service and people with wealth enough to afford gas illumination were being warned to turn the cocks and not blow out the gas.

You've got to be 65 years old or more to remember the tide of feeling against Pomeroy current at the time of his incarceration. There were few voices raised in protest when, although a boy, he was placed in solitary confinement and was kept there year in and year out.

Pomeroy is in his 68th year of life now and has been out of solitary confinement for only eleven years.

Today he reiterated to prison officials that he still hopes to obtain a parole or pardon and see some of the outside world.

In the blue patch of sky framed by the prison walls Pomeroy, of course has seen man's newest marvels—airplanes—but he has never been close to one. He has observed the changing face and customs of the world through prison-approved movies and his reading has carried him along in the progress so far as print and his aiding imagination can.

He hears the voices of the outside through the radio and he has used the inside prison telephone.

But, he wants a closer contact with the world and is hopeful that he will have it some day.

Then and Now

JESSE POMEROY
Famous lifer as he looked when he entered State Prison as a boy in 1876 and as he appears today.

VENIREMAN HAS 'KEY DREAD,' SAY DOCTORS

Proving by medical testimony that he is a victim of "claustrophobia" or the fear of being locked in a room, a peculiar terror was excused from duty by Judge Frederick Dickinson of Suffolk Superior Court today.

One of the panel called interrogatories for the September term of the superior court, the veniireman asked to be excused, giving the most novel reason in the history of the local courts.

He said that when a boy of 12 years he was locked into a woodshed and never has been able to bear being locked into any room since.

Medical evidence proved that there was a scientific name for this disease and the juror was therefore excused as he was removed from trouble.

Former Opera Singer Dead

Colo. Dispatch, Mr., Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Lillian Carll Smith, former opera singer, died suddenly here. She was [illegible] of the Capitol Theatre [illegible]

LIGHT FROST IN MIDDLESEX

Continued joy for the outdoor fan was contained in the weather man's prediction today with the promise of good clear weather for a spell.

A light frost, the first of the month, was experienced in the low lands of Middlesex County.

The area of night frosts responsible for the precaution marked a still continued delay over the Atlantic coast States. A northerly storm area was shown over Iowa, causing scattered storms through the Mississippi Valley.

ENLISTS LEGION FOR ARMISTICE HOLIDAY

Every post of the American Legion in the State has been asked to do its share toward getting the necessary 70,000 signatures required to place before the Legislature the proposal to make Armistice Day, November 11, a legal holiday.

Attorney-General Arthur K. Reading has approved the form of the initiative petition which will be filed tomorrow with the Secretary of State.

Blank forms are in process of preparation for the signatures and will be in the hands of the various posts within ten days.

"It is earnestly requested and urged that you immediately [illegible] committee within your post to take care of this signature," says a bulletin from Harold P. Hall, chairman of the legislative committee of the legion sent out to "Have your auxiliary do likewise. We must not fail."

TRACE OWNERSHIP OF PORCH-SLAYING PISTOL

Fall River, Sept. 6—[illegible] William C. Crossley and [illegible] police today enlisted the aid [illegible] federal postal authorities in an effort to trace ownership of [illegible] mate pistol which was used [illegible] slaying of Ernest Pelletier [illegible] been learned that the gun, which was found near the scene of the crime, was originally purchased by a Kalamazoo, Mich., mail order [illegible] by a local man, who later sold it [illegible] Fall River restaurant.

Inspectors again visited the Pelletier home and questioned [illegible] of the family for the second time. The police are keeping one man under surveillance and are seeking a woman with whom Pelletier quarrelled a month before the murder.

HOSPITAL FILLED WITH AUTO CRASH VICTIMS

Middleboro, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Automobile accidents, due largely to heavy traffic through this section of the Cape Cod route over the Labor Day week-end, filled practically every available bed in St. Luke's Hospital here. There were no fatalities, many motorists remained in the hospital for several hours. William [illegible] Jarvis, Newton Centre, with a broker's office in Boston, was arrested for dangerous driving and drunkenness after his big sedan crashed head on into a small coupe and swerved into the path of another car, injuring eight persons.

Thirteen More Infants Ill

Thirteen new cases of infantile paralysis were reported to the State Department of Public Health over the week-end. The total number of cases for the year is now 260, the highest reached since 1910.

FALLS OFF FIRE ENGINE; DYING

Ladderman James Foley, of the Chelsea Fire Department, was probably fatally injured today when thrown from the rear end of a piece of fire-fighting apparatus which was responding to an alarm on Madison avenue, Chelsea.

Foley was rushed to the Chelsea Memorial Hospital, where he was found to have sustained internal injuries, and a fractured skull, and his name was placed on the danger list.

Foley, who is 28 years old and lives with his wife at No. 27 Library street, has been serving on Engine 2. It was crossing Bellevue avenue near the Boulevard when he lost his hold and was tossed to the street.

MRS. BUDLONG LOSES IN NEWPORT DIVORCE FIGHT

Providence, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—A motion of Mrs. Jessie Margaret Budlong of Newport, whom Milton J. Budlong is suing for divorce, seeking to set aside a decree entered August 19, in Bristol court, denying Mrs. Budlong's motion to dismiss her husband's suit, was denied by Judge Blodgett in Superior Court today. Mrs. Budlong claimed the decree was entered [illegible] for Mr. Budlong without her presence. Judge Blodgett informed her the entry of the decree was purely formal after the court's decision, but Mrs. Budlong, wishing to protect her rights, said she would take exception to Judge Blodgett's ruling.

Canadian Trains Crash

Montreal, Que., Sept. 6 (A.P.)—The Canadian National train, the Acadian, ran into an open switch at Elgin road, sixty miles east of Levis and the engine left the track. The locomotive of a train going in the opposite direction sideswiped the derailed engine. No one was injured.

ARMOUR LEFT BUT MILLION

Chicago, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—The will of J. Ogden Armour, who once was rich an estimated $200,000,000, was filed for probate and disposed [illegible] today. [illegible] The will left a widow outright [illegible] and, [illegible] know Mrs. John [illegible] an annuity of [illegible] dollars, [illegible] the bulk of the estate, ex[illegible] bequests of from [illegible] to charities and [illegible] in trust for the benefit of the widow and daughter.

PARIS GUARDS U. S. LEGATION

Paris, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Despite the fact that hundreds of militant foreign Communists have been deported since the Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations on the boulevards, Paris police have not removed guards from American institutions.

Fourteen police are on duty at the American Consulate, thirty at the Chancellery and several at the American Legion headquarters and the American Cathedral.

The usual guard at the Consulate and Chancellery of two uniformed police.

Set Fire in Falmouth

Falmouth, Sept. 6 (A.P.) — This town's second incendiary blaze in three weeks and fifteenth in two years, today destroyed the building used by contractors developing a large real estate tract near Falmouth Heights. Damage was $4,000.

Convicted Vagabond Is Freed by Court to Roam His Way

Although convicted of being a vagabond, Mark Frankel, who claims to have been an officer in the Imperial Russian army, was released today by Judge Buttrick in Middlesex Criminal Court.

Frankel, appearing intelligent and well educated, said he left Russia at the outbreak of the revolution and came to this country. He worked when he could and when work was no longer to be found, started hiking about the country, covering the West, Middle-West and South before coming to New England. He was arrested in Concord July 16 while sitting in a park. Frankel showed the Judge a log of his travels. Judge Buttrick said he couldn't put the man on probation because of his ramblings, but believed him to be harmless and released him.

VICKERY TO WED MISS CONVERSE

Marriage intentions were taken out today at City Hall by Victor D. Vickery, Harvard clubman of Boston and Cambridge, and Miss Mylone Converse, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Frank B. Converse of No. 5 [illegible] street.

The announcement of the couple was made public last June by her parents at the Converse Summer [illegible] Duxbury.

Vickery is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vickery of Harvard Court, Cambridge, of which cousin is [illegible] Harvard [illegible] Crew, [illegible] Yacht and the Oakley [illegible] Club.

Both he and [illegible] is a member of the [illegible] Junior League and the [illegible] Club of 1916.

ADULT MALE FASCISTS NUMBER OVER MILLION

Rome, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—The adult male membership of the Fascist party has passed the million mark, it is officially announced.

The total party-inscribed black shirt forces are said to total 1,000,052 men, 25,087 women, 10,638 marines, 126,137 girls and 8,854 university students. The number of youths and boys is not announced.

Story of a Girl Who Did Just What She Chose and Then Took Flight

Emily Duane, care-free and wealthy leader of the young set, disappears on the eve of her wedding to Rodney Sayre, scion of old New England family. She had rushed from her wedding rehearsal with Polly Pennington to visit Mrs. Kitty Laurence in the maternity hospital. They never reached the hospital. Jim Pennington later told a worried nuptial party. Polly was found dead at the bottom of a ravine. Where was Emily?

Emily's cultivation of mysticism, then the fad, and the exclusion of her teacher, Swami Lal Singh, from her will upon her marriage, directed first suspicion toward the Hindu. Detective Fleming Stone, engaged by Sayre to pierce the mystery, found his first tangible clue in New York.

CHAPTER 23.

THE police had made up their minds as to the facts of Pauline Pennington's death. They were certain that Emily Duane in a moment of impulsive anger, had pushed her over the rail, and then horrified and frightened at what she had done, had run away to hide.

They were certain that Emily came along last after Pennington had left his wife, and that the two women quarreled, and Emily, with her quick temper and her active muscles, had given the other a push that sent her to her death.

This, they conceded, was probably impulsive and not intentional, but perhaps Mrs. Pennington was standing insecurely, and the rail of that bridge was admittedly rather low.

"Are you discouraged, Mr. Stone?" asked Betty.

"Discouraged? Yes." he said. "Disheartened? No. I am up against it, as I have never before been in all my experience. A [illegible] available suspects are too absurd. Even the wicked Lal Singh would scarcely dare commit a real crime in this place where he is so well known. He is a parasite, a fawning hypocrite, a fraud, if you like, but not a gunner or bandit, in any sense of the word. He might steal Emily's diamonds if he got a good chance, but he wouldn't have the nerve nor the unwisdom to abduct her and throw Mrs. Pennington overboard in order to get the diamonds. He'd realize the risk too strongly."

THE OBJECT

Every day a number of people are benefited in different ways through reading Classified Advertisements . . . those little ads offering helpful service and timely merchandise at bargain prices . . . which always appear in alphabetical arrangement and classified by subjects in the same part of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

Many interesting stories have originated with the reading of a Classified Ad—personal experiences dealing with Self Betterment, Romance, Happiness and Success.

This is proven by the occasional news story which reveals the facts and names of characters brought together perhaps after many years of separation or assisted in the recovery of unknown fortunes through the medium of a Classified Ad. Think of all the stories of personal interest relating to the ownership of a home, pets, a car or a profitable position secured, which remain untold.

The object of this contest is to compensate several individuals for the few moments time it will take to recount a personal experience which resulted profitably from READING a Classified Advertisement in the Boston Evening American or Sunday Advertiser.

Contest closes on Oct. 1st and all stories must be mailed not later than that date
Winners will be announced in the Boston Evening American on Monday, Oct. 10th, and cash awards sent the same date

Getaway Week for College Grid Squads

By A. C. BUCK.

Football players throughout the country are answering the call to arms.

Several teams started practice a few days ago, but the majority, with the exception of Harvard, Yale and one or two others, will get out on the gridiron during the coming week.

Included among the teams gathering for the first time this week is Boston College, candidates for the wide seven reporting today to the new head coach, Leo Daley.

B. C.'s traditional rival, Holy Cross, is starting practice at Worcester this week.

The two other big Jesuit schools on the B. C. schedule, Fordham and Georgetown, have already got going. Coaches Ed Robinson and Pappy Brown are gathering the Boston University squad together at Riverside Field, tomorrow afternoon. Dartmouth, Pennsylvania and Providence College start practice today while Wesleyan gets going tomorrow, Maine, New Hampshire and Williams start Friday.

Cash Customers at Training Camp Differ as to Tiger Jack's Condition

Dempsey's Training Camp, Lincoln Fields Race Track, Lincoln Fields, Ill., Sept. 6.—Five thousand men, women and children ran their morning eyes over the bronzed Jack Dempsey here, while he was boxing four rounds in preparation for his fistic contest with Champion Gene Tunney at Soldiers' Field, Sept. 22.

It was interesting to get opinions of some of the cash customers concerning Dempsey's chances. Some were of the opinion that Dempsey looked as much ever to whip Tunney and the other half of the crowd is getting in a hard fight and will run the champion a close second.

Insamuch as he is not to be a party to [illegible] the fight, it is proper to say that Dempsey does look in certain spots like a champion who will win the fight. Everything does Tunney. Each probably thinks he is going to win, but thinking at this stage will not decide the issue. So the people might as well keep on arguing until the party is over.

HEARST SHOOT DIVISIONS ANNOUNCED

Colonel George McD. Weeks, War Department referee of the William Randolph Hearst Rifle Trophy Matches among the R. O. T. C. units and educational institutions throughout the country, announced today the divisions which will compete in the national competition.

Each of the sections will carry trophies and medals for the highest teams standing in the three classifications; i. e., universities and colleges, high schools and military academies. In addition the national perpetual trophies and gold medals are to be awarded to the teams winning the country-wide championships.

The states included in each division are:

Middle West: Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota.

West: Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas, California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah, Washington, Wyoming, Territory of Hawaii.

East: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, Delaware, New Jersey, New York, Porto Rico, Pennsylvania.

It was also intended to slightly change the rules of former shoulder-to-shoulder matches, requiring even more keenness of vision and steadiness to win.

The new plans have been submitted to Major-General Chas. P. Summerall, chief of staff of the U. S. Army at Washington, D. C., for his approval.

It is expected battles will take place during the fall to suit the convenience of teams in each area with the object that they can operate final elimination matches during the greatest part of the winter.

JACK DEMPSEY Tells of Comeback

(Copyright, 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IT seems to me that the experts who think I can't whip Tunney "because no heavyweight champion ever regained a lost title," are just befuddling a public with this precedent stuff.

From John L. Sullivan's time down to Jess Willard's there were six champions. And, of that group, only two ever got a chance to try for the lost honors. Both had to go against Jim Jeffries. And Tunney is no Jeffries.

Sullivan never tried to regain his crown; neither did Jeff, after Johnson whipped him. Both quit the game after the battles that cost them their jobs. Johnson never tried a comeback, and Willard was so far done after I beat him that he never could come back to a point where he was rated as a menace to my reign.

SO it happens that only two of the six champions ever tried to recover their lost honors. One was Corbett, the other was Fitz. Corbett got a fair shot when he was 24. He second when he was 37. And Fitz fought to become champion again when he was 49.

And both had to go up against the men who had been called by many "the greatest heavyweight that ever lived"—James J. Jeffries. They had to meet a giant who could take more punishment than any heavyweight of any era they had to battle a ring of amazing strength, unbroken endurance and a terrific punch in either hand.

It was a most 2 to 1 against [illegible] of coming out [illegible] if they [illegible] been in the prime when [illegible] met it. When [illegible] fought Jeffries [illegible] were from 10 to 16 years older and Jeff was far under 30 and in the greatest form of his career.

IF I were going against a 26 or 27 year old Jeffries on the 22nd, and if at the same time I were four or five years older than I am, then I might have my doubts about signing, too. But, fortunately for me, I'm meeting Gene Tunney who is only three years younger than I am, and who, as far as he is, is not any Jim Jeffries.

Jeff had a murderous left hook. Tunney hasn't. Jeff could annihilate men with a smashing right cross. Tunney is a good right hander, but hitter—just good, and that's all. Some men cut Jeffs face to ribbons with their punches. But none ever dazed or staggered him. He was unbeatable, so far as punishing knockout was concerned.

But I have an idea that Tunney can be hurt—and Tunney can be stopped—if it's right. If he ever has to weather a storm of blows I don't think he'll do it as well as Jeffries.

Warning!

THE NEWEST COUNTERFEIT

The seizure by the police at Newark, N. J., of 2,000,000 counterfeit safety razor blades opens up the existence of what is alleged to be one of the newest and most impudent bits of fakery found in the country in a long time.

These blades were an excellent imitation of those made by the Gillette company, one of Boston's greatest manufacturing concerns, whose product is known as of the highest grade the world over. They are said to have a market value, if sold as genuine, of $150,000, and that sum might have been a dead loss to the company if they had been sold in competition. The police believe that the persons engaged in the dishonest business at Newark are but part of an international ring that has been marketing the counterfeits.

From the Boston Post Aug. 31, 1927

Counterfeit Gillette Blades

To the Public:

RECENTLY, attempts have been made to foist upon the public safety razor blades in imitation of genuine Gillette Safety Razor Blades.

By placing the name Gillette on inferior blades and branding the packages with this Company's name and trade-mark, these unscrupulous individuals have attempted to place counterfeit blades in the hands of Gillette users.

In appearance these blades are difficult of detection. In use they are so inferior as to be easily recognized as base frauds.

Criminal trickery has enabled the makers of these imitation blades to simulate the appearance of the well-known Gillette Blade package.

To protect the users of Gillette Blades, we suggest that you purchase your Gillette Blades only from recognized, established retailers of Gillette Razors and Gillette Blades.

To the Trade:

COUNTERFEIT Gillette Blades may be offered to you. These imitation blades are difficult to detect from genuine Gillette Blades because of the close reproduction of the package. For your own protection and the protection of your trade, please purchase your supplies of Gillette Blades from reliable, legitimate sources of supply.

Do not buy blades offered to you as Gillette Blades from unknown sources or at irregular prices.

Please advise us promptly of names and address of persons offering Gillette Blades at unusual prices, giving all information possible.

MRS. CORSON IN CHANNEL SWIM

improved perceptively, making conditions much easier for Mrs. Corson. Swimming experts here expressed the opinion that she was likely to accomplish the feat of being the first women to swim from England to France.

Mrs. Corson, who is trying for the Dover gold cup, was reported in good physical condition when she entered the water.

It was 26 years ago today that Tom Burgess, now a well-known trainer of channel swimmers, started from the same spot and succeeded in reaching the French coast. When Mrs. Corson was informed of this fact she exclaimed, "Good!" considering it as a favorable omen.

Pilot Pearson, in charge of Mrs. Corson's boat, said he was optimistic about her chances of getting across. His intention was to steer direct for the south Goodwin lightship, where the swimmer would get the advantage of a strong ebb tide.

Both Gertrude Ederle and Mrs. Corson swam the channel from France to England. Mrs. Corson seeks to become the first of her sex to make the crossing both ways.

Her swim in August, 1926, required 13 hours, 32 minutes, or one hour, one minute longer than Miss Ederle's record crossing three weeks before.

Columbia Grid Squad Out Today

New York, Sept. 6 (A. P.)—Columbia's football material was assembled today for its first workout of the season. Coach Charley Crowley and his aides hoped to develop from among the candidates a second-string reserve to carry on when regulars are out of the line-up.

Of the 35 candidates who were ordered to report today 18 are linesmen, 10 backs and 7 ends—all veterans of the 1926 varsity or newcomers from last year's freshman detachment.

Nashua, N. H., Sept. 6—The National Club of the New England Hockey League has voted to incorporate for $50,000. Much of the capital stock has been subscribed and work will begin to inclose the large Pine-street rink. It will be finished, it is expected, by November 15.

TILDEN MUST FIGHT HARD FOR TITLE

New York, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—A field of 64 international tenn's stars, headed by William T. Tilden, six times former champion, and Rene Lacoste of France, defending titleholder, was drawn today for the national men's singles champions'ship, starting at Forest Hills, Sept. 12.

Tilden, at the top of the draw, will meet Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., former Lehigh player, in the first round. Lacoste, at the bottom of the list, is paired for his opening match with F. C. Owens of Atlanta.

If form prevails, Tilden may have to play all three of his foremost French riva's in his come-back attempt. Jean Borotra, who meets Tei'o Toto of Japan in the first round, is "seeded" in the top quarter and probably will be pitted against Henri Cochet, who conquered Tilden last year, offers a semi final obstacle for Bill Big'ow.

LaCoste, in order to reach the finals must get by Ellsworth Vines Johnson in the semi-final.

Johnson's first round opponent will be Jr. George King, New York veteran who grabbed Little Bill' ten years ago at Seabright, N. J., in an invitation tournament. Cochet's opening rival is Percy L. Rynaston of Rockville Centre, N. Y. and Jacques Brugnon, fourth French player, will meet Gregory Mangin, nineteen-year-old Newark, N. J., star.

Robinson to Stay as Dodgers' Pilot

New York, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Max Carey isn't likely to succeed Wilbert Robinson as manager of the Brooklyn club even though the veteran outfielder is reportedly walking over the reins, probably next week, while "Uncle Robbie" is on a scouting trip in the West.

Robinson, advised today of reports he might abandon the helm, denied he had any intention of doing so, this year or next, explaining that Carey, as field captain, was the logical man to direct the club during his absence. "Robbie" expects to keep the team at St. Louis to scour the minors for new talent.

(Copyright, 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Lake Villa, Ill., Sept. 6.—I got my baptism of fire. It was my first workout here after my Summer of seclusion in the Adirondacks. I knew there would be thousands of people, drawn by the spotlight, who would come out to see just what kind of a curious person I was reported as being.

Place yourself in my position—if you have a nervous system. Instinctively, I wanted to make a showing. I wanted to cut loose with all I had. That part of it is human, part of the vanity of man. If I had cut loose I probably would have wrecked myself for a week—maybe for the fight. I haven't worked since last Wednesday, in Speculator. Instead, I have been using an entirely different part of my body, meeting hundreds of people, smiling, and replying to speeches of welcome. If I had obeyed the instinct to "cut loose", I would have fallen heir to a number of "Charley horses" and other afflictions of the athlete.

Once, early in my career, I fought a man and I cut my head. In the next fight I almost lost the fight, and I would then the caution would pay an important part in my life and in my fighting. That caution has come in handy. I wasn't impressive Wednesday, though. I didn't try to be impressive. I never liked the circus even as a boy.

I knew that, superficially, every move I made was being watched and built up and fed by the imagination. Actually my fighting existence was consciously mediocre.

What did happen, inside of me, however, is important.

AFTER a year from the ring, I faced a crowd again from across the ropes. I am sensitive to people. It is impossible for me to talk to them lightly, and one of my worst battles, while in the ring, is to look out the thousands of humans, tense, who sit facing the ring. I don't go on me. There is a certain pattern that always recurs me. Up to Speculator, it was different. I felt more free. A few of my friends would drift in at the workouts, two or three sporting writers who managed to find their way into my camp, and a coterie of Summer boarders, most of whom had but a small knowledge of boxing and a good walk over to the ring just because it was too early for their afternoon swim.

I [illegible] will notice, when I am in [illegible] permitting

A NEW outdoor stage, equipped with lights, fountains and dressing rooms, has been built at Montpelier, France. It is a gift to the city by August Bosc, a Paris dramatist and manager, who was born and educated in Montpelier.

Complexion Needs of Autumn Days

By MARIA JERITZA,
Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

NOW that lovely Summer is drawing to a close, most of us face once more a season of strenuous work or social activities. Under these circumstances, it may be well to take stock of beauty needs in order to attain or retain the dainty grooming and physical loveliness which are so essential to success nowadays.

The woman who has had a wholesome holiday in the country has doubtless returned brimful of health and vitality. She is radiant with high spirits, aglow with energy and good [illegible] a vacation well spent. And this vital health and vitality is the best foundation for beauty and charm.

Nevertheless, on returning from your holiday, you may find that sunshine, salt water and wind have played havoc with your hair and complexion. Also if you were lucky enough to experience the informal, happy-go-lucky life of camp, wearing the simplest of sports clothes, basking in the sun, swimming, rowing, canoeing, playing golf and tennis, motoring and fishing, it may be that you devoted less than your usual care to the details of your grooming. In all probability there was not a beauty shop available. Hot water was scarce. Your hair, your nails, your complexion received just sufficient attention to insure cleanliness. Yet you looked attractive because you were so healthy and happy.

Now that you are back in town, however, examining yourself critically, with the aid of a good mirror and clear light, you may decide that you need fastidious beauty care if your are to measure up to your own standards.

What is my advice under these circumstances? I suggest that if you can afford to do so, you visit the best beauty shop available. Have your hair shampooed, trimmed and waved, your nails manicured. Apply measures which will banish from your skin its weather-beaten look.

Resolve to revise your daily schedule in such a way that you give regular, systematic attention to your nails and complexion and the brushing and massage of your scalp and hair. Resume daily hot and cold tub baths if you discontinued them in the country. Begin your Winter setting-up exercises, which will refresh and stretch your muscles just as rowing, canoeing, tennis and golf did in the country.

Keep up the good effects of your vacation by continuing to walk four miles each day, rain or snow, and by drinking an abundance of pure milk and eating fresh vegetables each day. Keep up, also, the vacation spirit of happiness which fits well with all seasons and is a requisite of charm.

Get out your hand lotion, your rubber gloves. Buy a supply of cold cream or pure olive oil, soften the cold water for your facial baths with a good skin tonic or else fresh lemon juice. Soon this daily beauty regime should restore all your trim daintiness and good grooming and, in addition, you can maintain the wonderful reserves of health and vitality you gained on your vacation.

If you wish to bleach freckles, rub over them, from time to time, the pulp of a cross-section of a fresh cucumber. This makes a harmless bleach.

Tan fades naturally when the sunlight grows less intense. But if you wish to hasten the disappearance, you might apply the following mixture, which is said to be effective for both freckles and tan:

Ammonia water, 1 ounce; bay rum, 1 ounce; rose water, 1 ounce, powdered borax, 1 ounce; glycerine, ½ ounce; distilled water, 10 ounces.

The last, lingering traces of sunburn will speedily vanish as the result of the application to your skin each night of an equal mixture of cucumber and fresh lemon juice. If it will not disappear as soon as you really need, and apply the simple measures needed in each particular case, after a few weeks of this system of regime you should look and feel your loveliest and best.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "IT CAN'T BE DONE."

All ATTRACTIVE WOMEN have at some time
Is their lives had some MAN CLAMORING
For their LOVE and telling them they are NECESSARY to his very very existence.
THIS, to a woman, is sometimes FUN, sometimes
FUNNY, and sometimes RIDICULOUS. It depends.
On the feelings for the man. It may depend
Somewhat, too, on whether he is MARRIED.
One "CLAMORER" that practically by comparison with the results of observation—though in some cases, inevitably, these results must have been affected by the refraction of the theories—and they are continually undergoing revision in detail, and sometimes in fundamentals.

The solar system we see with our eyes; the atomic system we picture with our imagination, guided, to be sure, by our science. When we draw a representation of the sun surrounded by the orbits of its planets, we present something that can be verified by direct observation. When we draw an atomic nucleus surrounded by the "orbits" of its electrons we are using an assumed analogy that cannot be verified by direct observation, and that breaks down when tested by other assumptions of the theory.

Thus, light is assumed to consist of "quanta," or "darts," of energy shot out from atoms when an electron "jumps" from one station, or orbit, to another. The details of this are too complicated to be discussed here, but the following statement, probably from the pen of Professor Henry Norris Russell, in the revised edition of Young's "Manual of Astronomy," is very significant of the unfinished state of the "electron orbit" theory:

"Recent work (especially by Schrodinger) indicates that the whole theoretical picture of electrons moving in orbits within an atom, like that of light moving in rays in empty space, may be supplanted by some more comprehensive, but more intricate, wave-theory. The conception of electron orbits, like that of rays of light, may, however, remain invaluable in elementary discussion of the subject."

So the chief value of the attempted analogy between the sun and its planets and the nucleus of an atom and its electrons is for a picturesque illustration to get the mind into a receptive state. The earth does not resemble an electron, and an electron does not resemble the earth, and the solar system is no more like an atom than the George Washington of history is like the George Washington of a novel.

Concerning the Earth as an Electron

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

CONSIDER that no one has ever been within a million magnifications of seeing an atom; much less an electron. Wonderfully ingenious methods have been invented and used for "isolating" and "weighing the "quantity of electricity," called an electron. The mere use here of the familiar words "measure" and "weight" lends an appearance of every day reality to the things considered. But they are not things within the direct range of human senses. They are things of inference and theory. The theories and the inferences have been built up gradually, have been tested criti-

Vamps in Business

By LUCY LOWELL

NANCY wept one day at the "hard lot of women in business." The tears, of course, were for herself, because she had just resigned her job in a huff.

Haven't you frequently heard women bewail the unfairness that they meet with in every field of industry? Haven't you sometimes felt that you aren't accorded the same opportunity as the man who works at the next desk? Of course you have. And it is true. But instead of becoming bitter about it, I would suggest that you seek some of the causes within yourself. Perhaps Nancy's experience will help you toward that end.

My little flapper friend is very pretty and winsome. But she is no less quick-witted and efficient. It was therefore something of a jolt when she found one day that there was a serious deficiency in her rules for success. She is a much wiser girl now and a potentially successful business woman. She has learned her lesson.

Nancy was ambitious. The first rung might be stenography, but the ladder of her aspirations ended somewhere in the clouds. Armed with a limited education, and a personality and fresh young looks, she confidently set out to conquer Business," she descended upon Wall Street with a view to conquering it.

But there was one thing that Nancy did not realize—or rather she did, it was all very well for her to do her work with neatness and dispatch, but it was rather a different matter when efficient young men suddenly lost their efficiency when she came within their line of vision.

Now, all of this certainly was not Nancy's fault. The gods had been more than generous when they bestowed upon her a pair of deep violet eyes and red-gold hair. But it was Nancy's choice of clothes and the unconscious use of those violet eyes that caused much of the trouble.

My little friend was very much hurt when the office manager called her in one day and told her that she must attend more closely to her work. When she became indignant and pointed out that her work always was done well, he tackled the matter with more frankness. He told her that she was disrupting the harmony of the office and distracting the young men from their work. After a speechless moment Nancy came out with this:

"Are you implying that I vamp them?"

And she soon found out that the office manager implied that very thing. Whereupon she resigned. For if there is anything Nancy detests it is the type of girl generally described as a "vamp." Her sense of dignity was offended beyond measure.

The office manager was right, and I knew it. Nancy is a vamp without an intention to be. And I pointed out to her that she could consciously cease being a vamp—at least, in office hours—just as other girls consciously assume the role that was so distasteful to her.

She understands now. She has another job. And she wears simple, fresh-looking clothes. She is no less pert and winsome. But the impression she makes on her men associates is that of a young woman with poise and personality—not as a baby vamp. She has discovered that personality plays an important part in achievement, but that personalities are a sure road to failure.

Correct Manners

Late Announcement

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

We have been married since June 8 and wish to announce our marriage soon. Should announcements be sent out? Is a reception the proper thing to have? Who pays it?

A. R.

I STRONGLY advise you not to send out announcements at this late date. A formal announcement would [illegible] striking the fact that they are sent out so long after they should have been sent.

I advise you to write to your close friends who do not already know of your marriage, and tell them about the [illegible] and if you are a [illegible] friends are the only ones who are really interested in you as a couple, and who really understand as well as to why you need to announce it.

When you receive a reception, you and your husband could [illegible] your friends could be gathered together to offer their good wishes. That would be a splendid way of celebrating the beginning of the new home.

Maid of Honor

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. What are the duties of a maid of honor at a wedding?

2. What name is given to the person who seats the people at the [illegible]?

INTERESTED.

1. The chief duties of a maid of honor are to help the bride in every way that she can, before the wedding and during the wedding. For her special attention, she should keep in mind the bride's [illegible] a bouquet. During the ceremony she holds the bride's bouquet and at the conclusion of the ceremony she arranges the bride's veil as the bride turns for the recessional. If the bride wears a veil over her face, the maid of honor lifts the veil from the bride's face and adjusts it so that it falls in graceful lines.

2. I am not sure what you mean by this question. Will you write again and tell me? Do you mean the [illegible] usher?

The Bridal Shower

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly tell me about how long a time before a wedding [illegible] A. [illegible]

Breakfasts That "Stand By" You

Quaker Oats Supplies Vigor to Speed up Your Mornings

NOURISHING breakfasts of well-balanced food are now being widely urged by authorities as an important aid to business success of adults, and physical and mental development of children.

Some 70% of the day's important work in the business world, it is now known, falls into the four morning hours. So, of the important school work, in thousands of schools and colleges recently investigated, including Princeton, Harvard, most state universities and public schools, falls in the same period.

To be right mornings, you must eat right food; meaning rightly balanced, complete food.

Thus Quaker Oats—excellently balanced in protein, carbohydrates, minerals, vitamine "B" and the bulk that makes laxatives seldom needed—is the ideal dietetic opening. A delicious food that "stands by" you through the morning. No other cereal compares. Always remember that.

Get Quick Quaker—which cooks in 2½ to 3 minutes—or regular Quaker Oats today at your grocer.

Training a Child

By L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

DUNCAN is greedy and Evelyn is stingy. His mother's people say, "He is exactly like his father." His father's sisters chuckle to each other and say, "What sticky little [illegible] he was the image of her mother [illegible] every respect."

The sad part about it is that what the ladies say is perfectly true.

There is a difference between greediness and stinginess. After Duncan has all of anything that he wants he is more than willing to [illegible] to others, in fact, he is quite generous with whatever is left over. He has been too completely satisfied.

Evelyn is never greedy, but she and rather let tongs go to waste than share them away or divide with [illegible] don't want anyone [illegible] to her [illegible] have a piece of her candy. Of course, Duncan grabs part of the candy and crams it in his mouth before she can call for protection, but no other child ever shares the good things of her life—not if she can help it.

Children usually show these traits when they are very young, and that is the time when the opposite traits should be drilled into their consciousness.

It is a very good idea to encourage [illegible] to give [illegible] of his playthings with [illegible]

"Give Nancy a bite of your cracker," says the young mother. The baby holds up the cracker for Nancy to bite. She pretends to [illegible] and [illegible] placed.

That action is only part of the performance to many grown-ups; but it has its value. It is those first little gestures that are needed [illegible] and train [illegible] in the formation of the ideas and the character.

More than half the little boys in the world are greedy. They are covetous and when the spirit of "gimme" and they never grow [illegible] they have had enough. This [illegible] it is put early [illegible] pleasing to men—who have forgotten that they were the same way at that age. It is foolish to denounce a youngster or to treat him with scorn and disapproval because he acts like a little pig, but he [illegible] should be shown [illegible]

When the [illegible] sit down to the table before anyone else is served, mother make him wait until last or else tell him to run along to the kitchen and eat there until he can behave like a gentleman. Be sure to let him understand that he can come back to the family table without further reproaches as soon as he feels able to restrain his piggish ways. It is this comeback that drives the lesson home.

Stinginess and greed are all too common faults among grown-ups as well as children. These faults seem worse in children, because they have not learned to camouflage.

If your little boy or girl is greedy or stingy it means unpopularity and adverse criticism for the child in later years. There are ways and means of rooting out these traits, and the wise parent will find them—always remembering that, of all the methods, example is the most effective.

A Story of Sylvia Bryant, Stenographer, Among the Money Crowd

Joyce Ackerman, society woman and wife of Vance Ackerman, rich broker, appeals to a mutual friend, Alexander Ladd, a successful lawyer, to help her in her battle with Margot Liggett, who has won her husband's affections. Ladd persuades Mrs. Ackerman to install Sylvia Bryant, his stenographer, in her home as her social secretary. Ackerman admires Sylvia's beauty and charm, and Stuart Gifford, his cousin, falls in love with her. He makes light of marriage and she refuses to let him kiss her. Mrs. Ackerman confesses to Sylvia that she hoped her presence would aid in keeping her husband away from Margot. Sylvia overhears Margot's divorced husband threaten to kill Ackerman who defies him and says he is going out with Margot that very night. To avert a tragedy Sylvia begs him to take her to dinner. She tells Mrs. Ackerman what she is doing. Ackerman takes her to a revue.

Afterward Ackerman is stabbed to death. Sylvia flees and appeals to Gifford for help.

CHAPTER 37

SILENCE . . . a tense stillness in the little parlor, so still that the gray clock ticked aloud. Tom McGuire, his square hands, one on each knee, waiting.

Sylvia's mother, her mild eyes closed, her frame, lean, erect, upright in a chair. Arthur Bryant, asleep on the couch, his head in her lap. Her fingers at rest, resting on . . . [illegible] . . . Margot Ackerman. His face was white, set.

Memories flooded her. Memories that—in years to come—she would not want to forget. Memories that would be with her always, whether she wished it or not. Memories that would be a part of her life, as long as she lived.

Memories of Joyce Ackerman, who was first to accept her as a friend. Memories of Vance Ackerman, who had been so kind to her. Memories of Alexander Ladd, who had befriended her. Memories of Stuart Gifford, who had made love to her. Memories of Margot Liggett, who had threatened her. Memories of Tom McGuire, who had come to her rescue. Memories of Mr. Ackerman's death.

Memories . . . memories . . . memories.

"My daughter," said Sylvia's father. "Dear, dear."

"I don't want to do it, I don't want to do it," breathed Tom McGuire. "It may be necessary to do two evil things to avoid one evil thing, but I don't even mean it to be so. But sometimes I need a drink."

Not a sound for a moment. Then her heart knew a noise again.

"You mean—you've come to arrest me?"

Tom McGuire shook his head. "Before I'd report you, Miss Bryant—I'd not much to turn up myself, I'm not that big. Perhaps no one would ever find out. I'd do it—except for one thing. Tomorrow, perhaps, you'll want to run, the next day you may wish you were dead. I'm going to take you to—to—to a certain place tonight. Don't ask me. I don't know the full truth—more of it than you did the day you left."

Sylvia's mother said not a word. She made no sound. She seemed to swoon, all she did was sit there.

"That's all the talk," her father stated.

"If it was any other evil but Stuart Bryant I'd make you wash it all," Tom McGuire went on. "But as your evil is—I'm not taking no chances. Because I'm not sure that I know what I'm doing. Because things look bad—and you know what is capable of to-night."

"All right, certainly," said the father.

"I protect," agreed McGuire. "But what I was thinking was could I help? I says, that girl no more killed Ackerman than I did. But you know who did it. Maybe you're covering up for some bodies. I don't. I know one of 'em. I'm not sure which one. I'm sure I know who done it, and is she courting the ruination of her whole life by shielding someone—"

"I told the police all I knew!" Sylvia declared, fervently. "I told them about Jack Liggett—"

"I regret's night is too good," McGuire declared. "He may be guilty and probably is—but I thought if I came as a friend—"

The eyes of Sylvia's father were white, set. "You came as a friend McGuire, and I appreciate your motive. But even a friend can bring ideas that are intolerable. I don't even have, in my house, such an absurdity discussed. You will drop the subject."

Tom McGuire got up, fumbled for his hat.

"I wanted to help," he said simply. "I know how you feel, Mr. Bryant. I am a father myself. If anything comes up—you have one friend on this side."

Then was after he left a stunned feeling in the modest little apartment. Naturally, Sylvia's father and mother had shrunk, had somehow become faintly withered.

"You said I'd know about this unpleasantness again, Sylvia?"

Sylvia looked calmly into her father's eyes.

"I know about it—but I concealed it from you two. I couldn't bear to worry you. But it is, at least, only worry. They are not convicting innocent people of murder in these days."

"I—I can't stand it," her mother said, quietly. "If they ever locked you up, Billy—"

"I have the strongest man in Boston working with his marvelous mind in my behalf," Sylvia said, softly. "We've got to be reasonable and be what must be done. If the worst comes to the worst we won't sit still—any of us."

"But why didn't you tell me—or your mother—"

"I wanted to spare your feelings. But now you know. I'm under oath—and it looks as though I shall be under oath."

Suddenly the telephone rang clamorously, persistent. Alexander Ladd on the wire.

"Come at once," he said sharply, "to my apartment."

It was a command she dared not disobey.

EVERY race and every tribe there is has its flappers these modern days. Wherever the gay Parisienne is found—from Paris to far-off America or the wilds of Borneo—the flapper is a favorite of respect. And in all the world there is no flapper who can find

When you see one down Clover Clipper at the County Club dance, she sparkles and scintillates like a diamond in the sun. Then go to the movies and see the pictured flapper at her best on the jungle. She, too, loves to adorn herself with everything she can find.

Each little heart is striving for the same goal, each little head has the same idea, each little girl hunting the love of which she has dreamed. Kipling was right when he called them "sisters under the skin."

"Petty said, 'She's run over there now. Just [illegible]."

"Was she [illegible]?"

"Yes, she [illegible]."

They found Miss Wolcott sewing [illegible] a low chair.

They dropped into place, and Stone sat next Miss Wolcott, who was ready and willing to talk to him.

"Come into the library," she suggested. "I want to tell you something."

They went into a small room. Miss Wolcott began to talk, and as Stone listened he gazed idly around on the [illegible] of [illegible]. They seemed to be [illegible] past plays with a sprinkling of modern novels.

"You're fond of the stage," he said, and was surprised to see a wave of crimson sweep over her cheeks.

"It's my delight," she said, passionately. "I did so hope I'd be an actress, and I could do it, too—but for a foolish [illegible] it makes me a victim of stage fright at the crucial point."

"Too bad," said Stone, with real sympathy. "And so you read and study plays and then, you can do nothing with them."

"Yes, I buy every play that is published, and learn a part in it, and [illegible] here home, with only myself as audience."

Stone asked her a few questions concerning Emily Downs, but Jane Wolcott, war of small benefit in an information way.

At last Stone rose, but Miss Wolcott said hesitatingly:

"I haven't yet told you what I want to tell you."

"Get on with it then," he returned, looking at his watch. He had already learned how to talk to this vacillating young woman.

"It's—it's about a sort of society—not society but a band or a clique or something for—for forming a new race—"

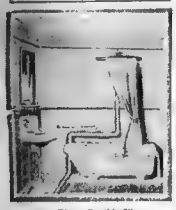
"Let me help you," said Stone gently. "You've in mind a movement for an [illegible] or community that shall have as its precentors only the best and finest specimens of our young people, and they shall be held captive and made to become the fathers and mothers of a superior race of human beings, it shall live in a sort of Utopia—"

"Yes, yes, how did you know?"

"I know all about that thing. It may be sincere in its intents, but it is not above suspicion of its ways. Emily and [illegible] Pennington went [illegible] and means. Now, [illegible] maybe Miss [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

COOK-COOS by Ted Cook

MAURINE LISPS 'NO' TO DECEMBER-MAY ROMANCE



There Was a Deathly Silence

The Baron was "lost in pained surprise" when Maurine forced her "trembling lips to say nay."

"Dear friend," cried Maurine, "dear generous friend, forgive

A troubled woman's weakness! As I live,

In truth I meant to answer otherwise,
From out its store my heart can give naught
But honor and respect; and yet me-thought
I would give willing answer, did you sue.

"But now I know 't were cruel wrong I planned:
Taking a heart that beats with love unstinted
And giving in exchange an empty hand.

She needs for love alone may not be wise;
She weds without it, angels must despise.

"Love and respect together must combine
To render marriage holy and divine;
And lack of either, save to Fate, decrees

Continuation of mental joys,
And brings regret and gloomy discontent,

To rest on such tender sentiment.
Nay, nay! I will not burden all your life

By that possession—an unloving wife."

The poor old Baron sniffed and kept trying to adjust his cuffs which, by this time, were rolling down the steps. Then he threw back his head, and from his thin lips there came a moan. He held the high note for 30 seconds and suddenly yodeled. Maurine began stamping her foot and clapping time with her hands. In shorter time than it takes to tell it the old Baron had gone into his soft shoe buck and wing dance, all the while crying as though his heart would break.

(This is a review of "Maurine" by Hiis Wheeler Wilcox, augmented by spoken notes not included in previous editions.)

Alice Elinor raises the following delicate question:

"Please advise how to handle a club sandwich. If I take up the first piece by least, mayonnaise will shoot in my eye. If I take the top two pieces, the tomato will slide off, and if I try to cram the whole thing in my mouth (for after all, it is a sandwich) I'll probably never be invited out to luncheon again. I pant for a reply."

Moronia says a kiss in time saves nine—miles' walk.

As Sam W. B. Cohen, the fearless press agent, insists upon saying, "The pistons and bearings do all the work, but the wheels get all the brakes."

Moronia went to Nantasket for her vacation and says she was shocked at the sign which she thinks, was hanging in a grill there:

TAKE A CHICKEN
HOME TO YOUR WIFE

"Most old maids," giggles J. W. P., "wear cotton gloves because they have no kids."

WELL FRIENDS, HOW DID YOU LIKE LAFF SMILEY'S DEBUT PICTURE "SKY HI"?
JACK STRONG DIRECTED THE FIRST SIX EPISODES, THEN WENT AWAY FOR A 2 WEEKS VACATION;
BUT JACKS BACK NOW AND AFTER RECOVERING FROM HIS REST, WILL BE ON THE JOB AS USUAL!
JACK, DID YOU HEAR ANY NICE THINGS ABOUT ME WHILE YOU WERE AWAY?
NO, EVERY WHERE I WENT PEOPLE KNEW YOU.
DID YOU MEET ANY RICH HEIRESSES UP NORTH?
I WENT HUNTING AND RIDING — NOT FISHING
RIDING? RIDING IN THOSE MOUNTAINS? DON'T MAKE ME LAUGH, I WANT TO BE LIKE BUSTER KEATON.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

MEN, like cats, have no gratitude toward the woman who makes life a bed of ease for them; but they have a wholesome respect for the one who makes them hop around and keeps them anxiously guessing whether her next move will be a reproof or a pat on the head.

• • •

There are two times in a woman's life when her husband admits that she is absolutely flawless; the day before he marries her—and the day after he buries her.

• • •

All the gossip you hear about a popular woman may not make a good case against her—but it makes awfully good conversation.

Nothing hurts a man more than to be suspected by a woman when he knows he's in the right—unless it is to be suspected by her, when he knows he's in the wrong.

• • •

Man is such a modest animal that he feels half undressed without his watch, and almost in "altogether" if he happens to be caught without his cravat. Yet the moment he puts on a bathing suit, Narcissus himself could not be more naively charmed with his own magnificence.

The average girl shows such Griselda-like patience in waiting for a man to propose matrimony, these days, that every man fancies he is getting a wife who will never run out of endurance.

• • •

"He brought me a rose!" blushed Grandmamma. "She let me kiss her hand!" boasted Grandpapa. Quid pro quo! When the modern young man begins complaining about the high cost of loving these days, let him not forget that the first rule of the game is "so much for so much."

• • •

Men don't propose marriage any more; they merely SUGGEST it tentatively in a magnanimous moment, with a "take-it-or-leave-it" manner, that makes you half ashamed to take advantage of them.

DO YOU CHANGE PERSONALITY BEHIND THE WHEEL?

IF you are naturally polite, why are you so rude and reckless when you get behind the wheel of an automobile?

Why do you change from a law-abiding citizen to one who seldom keeps within the bounds of the law as far as driving is concerned?

And how you do allow your temper to rule you!

While you may not swear audibly you feel like it.

Often you come back from a trip so roused by anger that you treat your family unkindly.

Of course you always consider the other fellow the offender.

You censure the driver who dodges in and out of traffic.

But often you do the very same thing.

You cuss the fellow who takes up more than his share of the road but frequently you are guilty of this offense.

When your family should be enjoying a ride, due to your ill-temper, an atmosphere of gloom prevents sociability.

And what good does it do you?

The careless driver does not care a whoop what you think, and she is innocent suffer for your grouch.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

We have not the love of greatness, but the love of the love of greatness.

LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized by Mr. Edison)

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

It was inevitable that the phonograph should find its way into the "nickelodeons" and other public places of entertainment. For this purpose the nickel-in-the-slot machine was devised and many a song hit of the day owed its popularity to the publicity it received in that way.

Few of us realize the many and varied forms through which the phonograph went to reach its present state. One of the curious, but little known, was the two-horn speaker type. For exhibition purposes and concert work the sound could be thrown two ways at once.

Exercising great ingenuity Edison, in 1900, succeeded in making a real phonograph to sell at the unheard-of price of $10. This was his "Gem" with a clock-key winder and wax cylinder. The making of this machine was discontinued, however, a number of years ago.

Closely associated with the wax-cylinder days of the "talking-machine" were the two trade-marks shown above, one entitled "The Phonograph," the other, "Looking for the Band." Both have been discarded. They have been replaced by Edison's portrait.

MEDBURY

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

"Clothes make the man." This may be true unless they happen to be the women's clothes, and then they usually break him.

ONE man claims his wife drove him into bankruptcy. She had ballroom gown ideas on a bungalow apron income.

HE says he's sorry now that he didn't marry the bareback rider in Ringling Brothers' Circus.

HIS salary is so small he'd have a hard job keeping one of Singer's Midgets in handkerchiefs.

THE average woman will complain that she has nothing to wear and then take an hour and a half to put it on.

MOST dresses are so abbreviated that there isn't room enough on them for the price tag.

EVEN the moths have to sit down and let their feet hang over.

THIS is the reason that flappers carry parasols. They don't want their knees to get sunburned.

A MAN nowadays never boasts about putting all his salary on his wife's back. He doesn't want his friends to think he's working for nothing.

Sour Stomach

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sour, sickening waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25c Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

SUMMER MOST ACTIVE FOR STOCK SALES

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Summer, of which Labor Day is generally accepted as marking the end, despite the calendar, has been the most active in the history of the stock market with its mighty volume of buying and selling. Summer was formerly traditionally the "dull season." Last Spring we interviewed a dozen or so Stock Exchange members and they were unanimous in forecasting a Summer of unusual activity. Their opinions, duly handed on to our readers, have proved remarkably accurate. These same brokers today look for continued business improvement through the Fall and beyond.

Gillette Safety Razor, selling at a new high, recalls the controversy in this column soon after the death of the late William A. Gaston that this big banker had told the writer of his avowed purpose to see to it that the Gaston holdings should not be thrown on the market in case of Mr. Gaston's demise. The stock was then about 10 points below today's figure.

The patent expiration on Gillette was at one time taken as a deterring argument against the stock. This was until it became appreciated that Gillette rivals the patent. Gillette organization. The importance of the Gillette name was impressively brought to light by the recent settlement of more than 2,000,000 counterfeit blades. Basic patents expire. Counterfeiting laws run on forever.

Taken as a whole, there is no tangible evidence that towns and cities have concluded their orgy of too much spending. A tabulation of the total amounts of bonds approved by the voters during the first eight months of 1927 and during the corresponding period of 1926 is given below:

	1927	1926
January	$12,909,800	$5,500,000
February	20,813,072	22,836,312
March	73,778,048	44,250,000
April	70,033,300	106,780,070
May	78,185,000	50,174,100
June	36,939,500	25,218,800
July	21,390,379	17,580,200
August
Total	$389,178,591	$337,918,705

In an automobile trip through scenes of Canadian grain territory, the writer saw little evidence of more than normal crop damage. The effects showed no signs of severe storms, such as would be evidenced by "lodging." Grain "lodged," which is beaten to the ground, is more difficult to harvest, but even then is not necessarily lost.

Inside Golf

By Chester Horton

I have observed in putting that it is a mighty good practice to get the left hand back more toward the right leg in the final position for stroking the ball, so that the hands are there right under the nose at the root line with the eye and the ball. To do this, stand with your nose directly over the ball. The nearest observation then will show you whether the hands are in front of whether the hands are forward. If they are forward, the blade will be turned less slightly to correct what you perceive to be the straight line to the cup. That is, unless you compensate by twisting the blade slightly to true it up. The difficulty of that is that you will have to make the toe of the club be forward of what appears to be a direct right angle across the direction line. Better get the hands on a bit line.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON:
1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land; in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND:
1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

The Liquor Question

"Wet" or "Dry?"

The people of Massachusetts, after all, may be given an opportunity to vote direct on the question of the Prohibition Amendment.

Steps are under way to obtain the views of citizens on not only the Eighteenth Amendment but on Sunday baseball and on a proposal that November 11, Armistice Day, be made a legal holiday.

Under the Initiative and Referendum law each of these three petitions must be signed by not less than 20,000 voters and filed with Secretary of State Cook not later than the first Wednesday in September. Then, if the Legislature fails to act in accord with the desires of the petitioners, an additional 5,000 signatures will be necessary to get the question on the November, 1928, ballot.

The "liquor" question which William H. Mitchell and eight associates, all of Boston, desire to bring before the people, reads as follows:

"Shall the Senators from this Commonwealth and the Representative in Congress from this district be requested to support a Constitutional amendment to REPEAL the 18th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, known as the Prohibition Amendment?"

Attorney-General Reading has certified to the correctness of the form of the petition in each instance and the securing of the required signatures is in progress.

Mussolini's Latest

The Eagles Are Taken From Napoleon

MUSSOLINI WITH EAGLES ABOVE HIM.

This, the latest portrait of Mussolini, Italy's powerful ruler, the great outstanding figure among the strong men of Europe, was painted by Professor Giuseppe Palanti, of Milan.

Mussolini is seen in a typical Italian landscape, with ancient ruins in the background.

Most interesting are the eagles shown flying above the head of Italy's Prime Minister and ruler.

Those eagles are the indication of power. The artist may have borrowed them from their constant association with Napoleon.

When he crossed the Alps in Winter, the first man to cross from France into Italy, the artist showed him with an eagle flying above his head, and underneath he put the words: "The Eagle, the Guide."

Napoleon's eagles, of course, were taken from the ancient eagles that marched at the head of the Roman fighters of Caesar's day and before.

Mussolini, in turn, is determined to do for Italy what Napoleon did for France, and more.

He intends to restore the grandeur of the ancient Roman Empire. He is laying his plans east of the Adriatic and far away in the Far East.

If his life is spared and his energies endure, there is no limit that can be set to what this man may accomplish by the use of absolute power and unlimited ambition.

And think how we change. Only a few years ago this same man belonged to the extreme radical end of Italy's Socialist party. He was opposed to wealth and power in any individual, demanding that everything be done by the people and by their will.

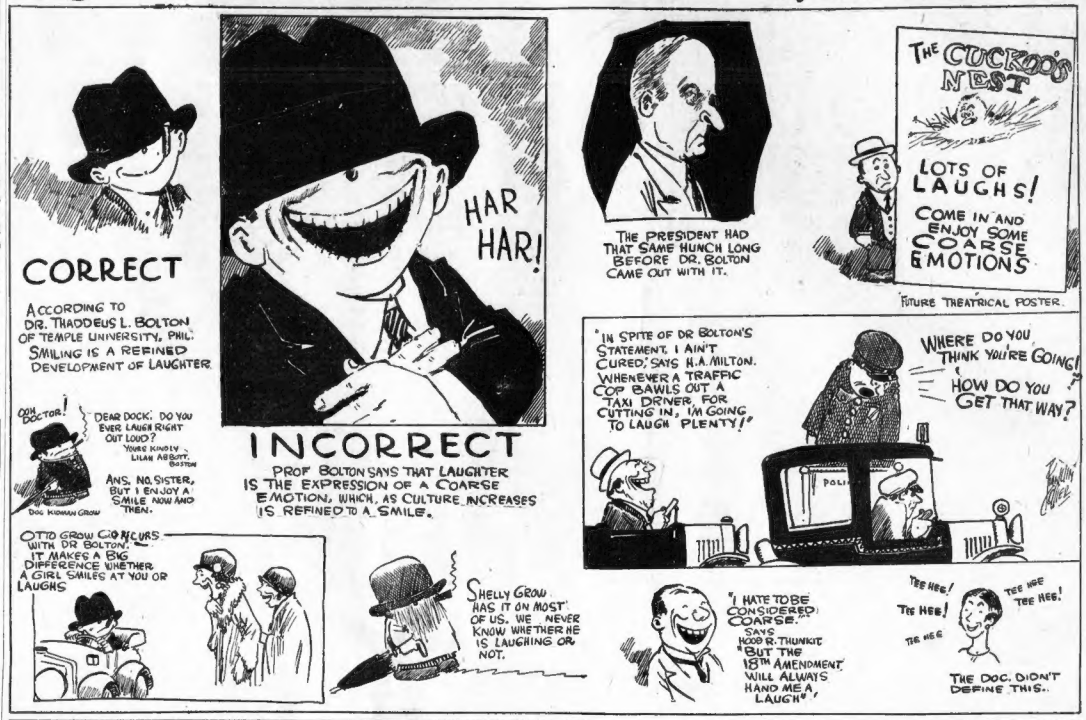
Today he says to the people, "MINE IS THE WILL, and yours is the duty to obey and carry out the plans that I form."

Circumstances change us, and, as Napoleon said, some of us change CIRCUMSTANCES.

Napoleon said, "Circumstances. I MAKE circumstances."

And Mussolini declares that he will make circumstances and make a NEW AND A GREATER ITALIAN ROMAN EMPIRE.

Laughter Is a Coarse Emotion -:- By Franklin Collier



CORRECT
ACCORDING TO DR. THADDEUS L. BOLTON OF TEMPLE UNIVERSITY, PHIL. SMILING IS A REFINED DEVELOPMENT OF LAUGHTER
HAR HAR!
INCORRECT
PROF BOLTON SAYS THAT LAUGHTER IS THE EXPRESSION OF A COARSE EMOTION, WHICH, AS CULTURE INCREASES IS REFINED TO A SMILE.
OH DOCTOR!
DEAR DOCK. DO YOU EVER LAUGH RIGHT OUT LOUD? YOURS KINDLY LILAH ABBOTT, BOSTON
ANS. NO, SISTER, BUT I ENJOY A SMILE NOW AND THEN.
DOC KIDMAN GROW
OTTO GROW CONCURS WITH DR BOLTON. IT MAKES A BIG DIFFERENCE WHETHER A GIRL SMILES AT YOU OR LAUGHS
SHELLY GROW HAS IT ON MOST OF US. WE NEVER KNOW WHETHER HE IS LAUGHING OR NOT.
THE PRESIDENT HAD THAT SAME HUNCH LONG BEFORE DR. BOLTON CAME OUT WITH IT.
THE CUCKOO'S NEST
LOTS OF LAUGHS! COME IN AND ENJOY SOME COARSE EMOTIONS
FUTURE THEATRICAL POSTER.
"IN SPITE OF DR BOLTON'S STATEMENT, I AIN'T CURED," SAYS H.A. MILTON. "WHENEVER A TRAFFIC COP BAWLS OUT A TAXI DRIVER FOR CUTTING IN, I'M GOING TO LAUGH PLENTY!"
WHERE DO YOU THINK YOU'RE GOING?
HOW DO YOU GET THAT WAY?
"I HATE TO BE CONSIDERED COARSE." SAYS HOOP R. THUNKIT. "BUT THE 18TH AMENDMENT WILL ALWAYS HAND ME A LAUGH".
TEE HEE! TEE HEE! TEE HEE! TEE HEE!
THE DOC. DIDN'T DEFINE THIS..

FILM LIBRARY FOR THE FUTURE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

LIBRARIES are essential to the continual advancement of the race. In them are preserved the records of past achievements, and by looking them over a man can see what has been done before him and how far along he has progressed.

The beaver builds the same kind of dam now that he built in the Garden of Eden, and the bee makes the same kind of honeycomb. Animal life goes round and round like the wheel of a stationary engine.

Human advancement, however, is more spiral. It sometimes seems to be going round and round, but at every turn of the wheel it is getting a little bit farther.

We are all indebted to those who have gone before. Our electric lights are the result of the discoveries of a man who is now dead and our gas comes from a like source.

The man who invented matches is gone, and the heroes who founded this republic have passed away.

Looking back over their achievements, we are enabled to make our advancement.

A significant step in this direction has been taken by Harvard University, where a committee has been appointed by the faculty, who every year will make a selection of the films produced during the last twelve months which they deem worthy of preserving.

A library of this character will be of immeasurable value.

Think what it would mean if we could have the actual George Washington in action reproduced before our eyes, or the doings of Napoleon in person.

President Wilson has already begun to fade in our memories, and of Wellington and Gladstone we have but dim conception.

To conserve, therefore, films representing public men and public events, which are worthy of conservation, will be greatly appreciated by the next generation. It will help them not only to read about Mr. Coolidge and Theodore Roosevelt, but if possible to see their moving pictures and perhaps to hear their voices.

All this brings to mind that the moving picture is not a mere form of entertainment.

To be sure, that is now its principal use, but it is also a method of instruction unparalleled.

Devices will be made in time by which we can teach such things as history and geography, to say nothing of other sciences, by the means of these films.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

Commissioner of Public Utilities LEWIS GOLDBERG is thoroughly enjoying his vacation after one of the busiest sessions that the commission has had in years. The commissioner is taking care of his little daughter Hannah. Mrs. Goldberg is abroad visiting Palestine.

Another member of the commission, HENRY G. WELLS of Haverhill, attended the convention of the American Bar Association in Buffalo. Wells will explain to the association the Massachusetts theory of allowing a fair return for public utilities based on capital honestly and prudently invested.

U. S. Deputy Marshal FRANK HART of Lowell spent many harrowing mornings in France calling cosmopolitan Army roll-calls but the job he now has at the Federal Building every Monday beats his World War days by a mile. Frank assists in the weekly naturalization process through which more than a dozen alien nationalities pass and the rosters he reads at the ceremony would make a professor of languages dumb with terror.

Perhaps no man in City Hall says hello more times than genial policeman JOSEPH SMITH, who sits at the top of the stairway, just outside of MAYOR NICHOLS' office. "Joe" sees hundreds in the course of a day as they descend or ascend the stairs or go up and down in the elevator. "Joe" refused to hazard a guess as to the number of hellos he has uttered during the dozen or more years he has been assigned to the City Hall post.

CITY HALL, that part which faces School street, greets one who enters as though they were entering the "cave of the winds," at some Summer amusement park. The installation of the new elevators is the cause. The steel drills used by the elevator constructors whistle through the corridors and offices, reaching sometimes to the point that one thinks that Old Boreas is on a rampage.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

ARE Modern Mamas Martyrs?

Betty thinks so.

Betty's twenty-four—pretty and charming. Most popular girl in the office before she married Dan, two years ago. Eighteen months of loyous nesting—then the baby came. And Betty started in to be sorry for herself.

Wasn't it a nice baby? Cutest little rascal in town. Pretty as a plate, lusty and husky, a jewel of a child. But as is common with the human young, he needed a lot of attention. Sun bath—bottle—nap—exercise—something doing every minute of the day and often far into the night. Not hard work, but picky. And Betty has let it ravel her disposition into shreds.

Naturally she is tired. But beneath that tiredness there's a self-pitying, resentful attitude which aggravates her weariness a thousand fold and is making life a lively young hades for Dan.

She can't talk to you for five minutes without beginning to whine. She's "all worn out"—"never has a minute's rest." All her Girl Friends are having wonderful times, but she's "tied down every second." You mention Dan's Proud Papa enthusiasms and instantly she's resentful. Yes, of course, Dan thinks the baby is wonderful but he doesn't have to take care of him. Dan goes off every morning and never gives it another thought. Then he comes home at night and expects to find her fresh and full of fun. Well, if he had to work the way she does, etc., etc.

Does that mean that Betty doesn't love her little son? Not at all. She adores him. And she has the makings of one of the finest mothers in history—if she can get wise to herself. But just at present she is reacting to motherhood as 999 out of 1000 modern girls react. She is taking it as a personal grievance and making herself and everyone else miserable by being sorry for herself and mad at Dan.

Babies are a hard job. They have always been a hard job. But the human female of other generations expected hard jobs. She had no time out. And she took maternity, with its attendant blights and burdens as a matter of course.

Young ladies of today do not take any kind of burden as a matter of course. Nor are they to blame for this. The whole human race has revolted against drudgery and discipline and is looking for a soft snap.

Betty thinks so. Betty is no exception, but she is causing herself a lot of needless suffering by acting the martyr.

She isn't a martyr. She is a healthy, normal young woman with a perfectly reasonable job. She is not working any harder than any young woman should be expected to work and she is enjoying priceless compensations in the way of love, protection and freedom from responsibility. At present her hours are broken, but this condition will shortly pass. She will be enjoying leisure and freedom when other working women are still in the tread mill.

The great trouble with Betty, and many other modern wives and mamas is that they don't think of themselves as working women. They do not realize that it's as much up to them to pay their way after marriage as before. They feel that they have conferred an inestimable favor upon their males by marrying them, and should thereafter, be exempt from toil.

They may have been most sensible and systematic as office girls but it does not occur to them that marriage is as much a job as stenography and that a husband has as much right to expect a courteous and efficient service as any employer or partner. Consequently when they find that wives are still expected to be workers they grow highly indignant and feel cheated and abused.

That is one reason why our divorce rate is booming.
